Djokovic in French Open final, defeats Alcaraz

What promised as a high octane thriller ended in a anticlimactic fashion as Novak Djokovic beat injured Carlos Alcaraz 6-2, 5-7, 6-1, 6-1 in the semifinal at the French Open on Friday. It was the 45th Grand Slam semifinal for Djokovic. With the win, the Serbian entered the Grand Slam final for the 34th time, and is now on the brink of surpassing Rafael Nadal to win his 23rd major.

First former president in US history to face federal charges; won't affect presidential run

Trump indicted over secret files, jail if convicted

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

IN an unprecedented development, former US president Donald Trump has been indicted for mishandling classified documents. The indictment carries grave legal consequences for the Republican presidential hopeful, including the possibility of prison if convicted.

Trump is accused of taking classified documents from the White House to his Florida resort. According to reports, Trump faces seven criminal charges including wilful retention of documents in violation of the Espionage Act, making false statements, obstruction of justice, and conspiracy.

The indictment comes at a time when Trump is the frontrunner for the Republican presidential nomination. "The corrupt Biden Administration has informed my attorneys that I have been indicted," he wrote on his Truth Social platform, adding that he has been summoned to a federal courthouse in Miami next Tuesday.

With the indictment, Trump earned the dubious distinction of becoming the first former or sitting US president to face federal charges.

While the latest development is a setback for Trump, it does not rule him out of the November 2024 presidential election. According to a section of legal experts, if he were to win, his swearing-in can't be blocked even if he is convicted and sent to prison. The case adds to deepening legal jeopardy for Trump, who is facing investigations in Washington and Atlanta that also could lead to criminal charges.

According to prosecutors, Trump took some 300 classified documents home after leaving the White House. Trump has repeatedly claimed that he was entitled to keep the documents as he had declassified them.

Dist mins named: DKS gets B'luru, Laxmi Udupi

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Siddaramaiah seems to have played it safe in the appointment of district in-charge ministers. Most of his cabinet ministers have been made in-charge of their respective districts.

However, he has allotted Bengaluru to Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar, who holds Bengaluru Development and Water Resources portfolios. Health and Family Welfare Minister Dinesh Gundurao has been appointed in-charge of communally sensitive Dakshina Kannada district.

Belagavi, the biggest and politically sensitive district, has been given to Public Works Minister Satish Jarkiholi.

The lone woman minister, Laxmi Hebbalkar, has been named as Udupi district in-charge minister. Union Minister of State for Agriculture Shobha Karandlaje represents Udupi-Chikkamagaluru constituency in the Lok Sabha.

As expected, Home Minister G Parameshwara got his home turf Tumakuru district.

The following is the list of other district ministers: MB Patil, Vijayapura; Priyank Kharge, Kalaburagi; NS Boseraju, Kodagu; HC Mahadevappa, Mysuru; KH Muniyappa, Bengaluru Rural; Eshwar B Khandre, Bidar; Ramalinga Reddy, Ramanagara; KJ George, Chikkamagaluru; BZ Zameer Ahmed Khan, Vijayanagara; Byrathi Suresh, Kolar; Santhosh L Lad, Dharwad; Shivananda Patil, Haveri; HK Patil, Gadag; Sharanabasappa Darshanapur, Yadgir; N Chaluvarayaswamy, Mandya; and SS Mallikarjuna, Davanagere. Single male parents to get 6-month childcare leave

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

SINGLE male parents working in state government offices will get childcare leave up to six months henceforth. According to a Government Order issued here on Friday, a widower, divorcee or unmarried can avail the facility.

This is for the first time that Karnataka is introducing such a facility. In Karnataka, government employees are eligible for 180 days of maternity leave and 15 days of paternity leave. Presently, only women employees are eligible for childcare leave (other than maternity leave) which was introduced by the Yediyurappa government in 2021, where one can take leave up to six months to take care of children aged below 18.

As per the order, several departments have been receiving requests for childcare leave by single male parents. As these requests seem to be valid, the facility will now be extended to all such male employees. Such male employees can take leave for six months and it should not extend beyond 180 days. It said if the single male parent gets married during the duration of childcare leave, the facility will be cancelled with immediate effect (from the date of his wedding).

The Karnataka Civil Service Rules will be amended soon to include this facility, sources said.

3 KILLED AS VIOLENCE RETURNS TO MANIPUR

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @ Guwahati

FOLLOWING a brief pause, fresh violence erupted in strife-torn Manipur on Friday as insurgents dressed as soldiers shot dead three persons, including a woman, and injured two others.

The incident occurred at Khoken village on the boundary of Kuki-majority Kangpokpi district and Meitei-majority Imphal East district at around 4 am. When a group of gunmen in Army fatigue swooped down on the village, the locals took them for security personnel conducting a combing operation. However, the insurgents opened fire, killing three villagers and injuring two others.

Security forces on a routine patrol stepped in when they heard the sound of gunfire.

However, the militants fled the scene. The insurgents are believed to be from the Meitei community, officials said. P10

Kathmandu mayor kicks up row over map

STAFF CRUNCH HITS SWD ENCROACHMENT REMOVAL

House owners say there have been fresh markings on their properties

MOHAMMED YACOOB @ Bengaluru

AHEAD of days of heavy rain, the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike's (BBMP) storm water drain section was compelled to stop the encroachment clearance because of a staff crunch.

Around 15 days earlier, BBMP had removed furniture godown at Hoysala Nagar in KR Puram to prevent flooding in Sai Layout like last year.

The officials had already begun marking many homes as they claimed that old markings were removed by house owners to circumvent demolition.

The house owners were also asked to vacate.

"There is a shortage of staff in the SWD section. The Palike had to deploy surveyors from the revenue department two weeks ago and we had to take engineers from other zones to clear encroachment. It is a massive exercise that also requires police personnel as at times, the situation can take a chaotic turn. Seniors have been informed," said an official.

Meanwhile, owners said that there have been fresh markings on their properties, asking them to vacate the properties and cooperate with the BBMP for the encroachment clearance drive.

Since the officials have not come back or did not communicate anything, they will continue to reside in their properties, they said.

"Two weeks ago, the officials had demolished the compound wall and a shed at my building. The next day, they came with fresh markings which means four pillars will be removed. I was planning to move out of the building. But since the day of marking, there has been no communication," said Girish Bhat, a resident of Hoysala Nagar in KR Puram.

CBD SEES SOOTHING SHOWERS

Bengaluru: After scorching days and unbearable humidity, the city received a decent spell of rain, especially Central Business District, bringing down the humidity which was ranging from 70 per cent to 80 per cent over the last few days. According to an official from the India Meteorological Department (IMD) Bengaluru, the city received light to moderate rainfall of 1mm across Bengaluru. However, in the HAL observatory alone there was 15.5 mm of rainfall till 5.30 am on Friday. Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) control room officials said although the rain was low intensity, two tree fall incidents were reported - at BEML 5th state in RR Nagar Assembly constituency and at Lingarajpuram in Sarvajna Nagar Assembly constituency. The Prahari team comprising forest department officials rushed to the spot and removed the trees, said a control room official.

BE ON GUARD DURING RAIN, WARN EXPERTS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

AFTER a woman died when the car she was traveling in was submerged in KR Circle underpass following heavy rain, experts and activists have advised that citizens should also be cautious as the downpour days are approaching.

People should be careful in areas where there are many trees, assess the situation of the underpass and the water level there, and avoid walking on footpaths if it is flooded as slabs might be missing, the experts said. Experts also advised that citizens should not step out during and immediately after heavy rain.

"People cannot be casual during rain in Bengaluru. Government agencies should be prompt to react to any disaster situation. However, people should avoid stretches which are flooded, avoid standing near old and big trees, and never take shelter under bridges," said V Ravichander, an urban expert.

A former top bureaucrat from Bengaluru, who has experience in handling flood situations in the city, said the BBMP has a huge responsibility of ensuring the free flow of water and there is no sewage or garbage blocking the drains.

"Storm water drains have 30 per cent sewage which is preventing the flow of excess rainwater, resulting in flooding," said a retired bureaucrat, adding that the Bengaluru Water Supply and Sewerage Board (BWSSB) should keep the sewage treatment plants ready, and stop sewage from going into storm water drains.

Special Commissioner for Health and Mahadevapura Zone in-charge Commissioner Dr KV Thrilok Chandra said, ''Measures like regular cleaning of storm water drains and checking vulnerable points have been done. The Palike is also undertaking storm water drain encroachment clearance drive, has set up control rooms in each sub-divisions, and pruning trees."

Will fill 58K teacher posts soon: Madhu

PURAN CHOUDHARY @ Bengaluru

WHILE schools officially reopened in Karnataka on May 29, several government schools are still facing shortage of teachers. Currently, the schools have vacancies for 58,000 teachers in primary, secondary and PU colleges. Secondary and Primary Education Minister Madhu Bangarappa said that appropriate steps will be taken to fill the gap in schools while keeping quick timelines in mind.

While speaking to TNIE he said, "We are just waiting for legal clearance from the court... all paperwork has been done from the department's side and we will complete the placement process as soon as we get a nod from the High Court."

Earlier, married women had submitted their father's income certificates and were not considered in the list as the rule said that only the husband's income certificate is allowed. After the High Court intervened, the BJP government then had completed the recruitment of 13,351 of the 15,000 vacancies. After that, some candidates again approached the court.

Bangarappa said that the department is also clearing the recruitment of 8,500 temporary teachers. He, however, stressed the point that "temporary teachers will not help solve the issue." He highlighted that gradually more teachers need to be recruited permanently and the government aims to address the issue on priority.

He also questioned the BJP's in approving transfers of teachers. Bangarappa said, "Some 87,000 teachers have applied for transfers and only 20,000 are eligible... why did the BJP government not clear it when in power? Schools were ready to begin by the end of May, they could have done it in March." The Minister said that the current government has approved transfers and will push for implementation as soon as possible.

TEACHERS' FORUM SLAMS EX-MIN, SAYS ISSUES NEVER ADDRESSED

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

TEACHER associations have hit out at former education minister BC Nagesh on various issues, including criticising the present Congress government on revision of textbooks.

The Karnataka Associated Management of Schools (KAMS) and Karnataka Unaided School Management Association (KUSMA) stated that the former minister did not listen to the problems of stakeholders and many of the suggestions and appeals given to the department fell on deaf ears. "During the first visit of the associations with the minister, he was more adamant on talking down to private schools, rather than listening to our problems... In a situation like Covid-19, where teachers were killed and schools were left helpless, there were many assurances given but no work towards solving any issues was done," the associations said.

They had pointed out that education issues were not being addressed and his tenure saw several controversies, including the textbook revisions and hijab row. "Justice should be done by exposing corruption... The (present) chief minister and education minister must be patient and understand the problems faced by educational institutes and not have the same attitude shown by the last government," they added.

NEP decision after getting inputs: Min

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

HIGHER Education Minister Dr MC Sudhakar said on Friday that a decision would be taken on the National Education Policy (NEP) after considering inputs from all stakeholders.

The minister said that there were many opinions for and against NEP. He also highlighted the statement given by the education adviser to the government Dr MR Doreswamy, who appealed to the government not to repeal NEP as it has good initiatives and focused on skill development.

"We will definitely take into consideration all opinions while taking the decision. The decision on its implementation will be taken by the chief minister and deputy chief minister," he said after a review meeting with vice-chancellors of universities across the state. The vice-chancellors seized the opportunity to voice out their problems under the last government, including the implementation of the Unified University and College Management System (UUCMS). Sudhakar said their problems like staff recruitment, distribution of marks cards and scholarship dissemination are also being considered.

Regarding UUCMS, he said that the vice-chancellors urged that the process of using the portal be made easier as there are several glitches.

Hon doctorates for Dr Kasturirangan, Dr Sudarshan

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

FORMER ISRO chairman Dr K Kasturirangan and Karnataka Covid Technical Advisory Committee (TAC) chairman Dr MK Sudarshan will be awarded honorary doctorates during the 25th Rajiv Gandhi University of Health Sciences (RGUHS) convocation on Saturday.

Speaking on Friday, RGUHS vice-chancellor Dr MK Ramesh announced that Doctors of Science would be awarded to the two prolific personalities, as well as Dr P Satish Chandra, former head of the National Institute of Mental Health and Neurosciences (NIMHANS).

Around 49,560 students will graduate on Saturday, with 97 students receiving a total of 108 gold medals.

Interestingly, of the 97 students receiving gold medals, only 12 are men.

A total of 85 women students will be awarded gold medals for their academic distinction. This includes two students - Dr K Deepti and Rajani Panta - who have received three gold medals each.

Rajani Panta was awarded gold medals for topping the Bachelor of Science (BSc) in Allied Health Sciences course.

Dr K Deepti came first in the three-year Doctorate of Pharmacy (Pharm.D) course.

Karnataka High Court Chief Justice Prasanna B Varale will be attending the convocation on June 10 as the chief guest, alongside Medical Education Minister Dr Sharanprakash R Patil.

10th June : If you thought you'd heard some weird stories, then try this. The latest theory about the beginning of our universe is weirder than anything I've heard so far. Apparently, there are two universes constantly moving apart and then together again. When they move together, they explode and the whole process starts anew. It all makes astrology seem positively normal!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
You are bound to feel slightly uncertain, if not unsettled. It's a useful moment to spend some time alone, daydreaming and letting others carry the can. Just make sure that you cope with practical chores that absolutely can't be delayed. Otherwise you'll annoy people you rely on!

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
Venus, the planet which represents your relationships, is now forming a distant alliance with Jupiter, the symbol of generosity. Could a lover be in a particularly generous mood? This is certainly one possibility. At all times remember that change is desirable, but stability is essential.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
It's time to contemplate the professional future, although it is uncertain whether it is you or a partner who is under the spotlight. Plus, don't imagine that career is everything. There are many other ambitions worth pursuing! Improvements at home are long overdue, so put your suggestions forward now.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
Travel plans should form a central part of your thinking right now. Your need to get away is not pure escapism, more a matter of finding out what the rest of the world has to offer. Even short trips are likely to satisfy your expectations, at least partially.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
There's passion aplenty in the air today, and you're liable to be extremely busy. And if you don't like that prospect, then stay away from the action! Once you have dealt with financial questions and routine chores, you can turn to personal relationships. Take differences of opinion in your stride.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
The Moon presents you with significant personal challenges, and quite possibly a degree of confusion. The way to highlight today's positive potential is to emphasise every activity which is inspired, imaginative and romantic. That sounds like an excellent policy!

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
Venus is currently bringing emotional reassurance, but its intriguing relationship with Mars could upset a number of your preconceptions today. It's important not to hang on to the past, but to see that people who have come into your life recently can offer you all the support you need.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
You could be having qualms about one particular emotional tie, and you may be concerned that a partner or colleague doesn't feel about you the way you feel about them. It's one of those rare moments when absolute honesty is called for. You never know - you might be pleasantly surprised.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
You probably feel pulled in two directions, and you may imagine that there can be no solution to an emotional quandary. However, all things must pass, and if you face up to the issues now, the tension will dissipate. All you need is a dose of additional confidence.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
It is time for a little sensitivity. You may even have a telepathic feeling or two, and your intuitions certainly seem to be functioning in top gear. Mind you, it could be difficult to distinguish true facts from vague fantasies, and news which arrives very soon could be a mite confusing.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
There may be little you can do to straighten out personal finances at the moment, but you must pay very close attention indeed to all joint business affairs. This is where prosperity lies. Could a loved one offer better advice than the experts? Perhaps - so listen well and judge carefully.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
The Moon marks today out as a very special moment, if only because it's offering you the chance to expand your horizons. Even small events which take place now could have very positive and powerful repercussions over the next six months. And that has to be good news!

Dinesh to review projects approved under PPP model

Gundu Rao says, government should be more accountable for all hospital premises, doctors, nurses

NAMRATA SINDWANI @ Bengaluru

UNLIKE the previous BJP government, the new health minister does not favour the public-private partnership (PPP) model in the health sector. He plans to review all projects approved so far and decide which should continue under the PPP model.

Health Minister Dinesh Gundu Rao said that none of the district hospitals or PHCs should be put under the model. Instead, the government should be more accountable for all hospital premises, doctors, nurses, and also for strengthening them.

The PPP model was largely promoted at the state and national level by the BJP government and 11 districts were identified in Karnataka, where medical colleges will be set up along with district hospitals. The districts included Tumakuru, Davanagere, Chitradurga, Bagalkot, Kolar, Dakshina Kannada, Udupi, Bengaluru Rural, Vijayapura, Vijayanagara and Ramanagaram.

Dr Sujatha Rathod, director, medical education department, explained, "The entire planning and discussion is at an early stage, except one model being introduced at a district hospital in Davanagere, which is expected to be up and running by 2024-25."

Rao told TNIE that he will not dismiss all the projects completely, but will review them in detail and then decide which ones should continue under the PPP model.

The previous government had planned to allot land to private firms under the PPP model. They would invest funds for college building, infrastructure, teaching and non-teaching staff. Further, the government would hand over the district hospital to firms for clinical practice.

Dr Rathod explained that the conceptualisation of the PPP model in all these districts had been done for over eight months now. The cost of treatment would depend on the patient; Those Below Poverty Line would be given free treatment, while others charged accordingly. A district hospital, hence, would no longer function as an entity providing free treatment to all.

Health experts criticised the move, saying it will be unsuccessful and the citizens might end up facing the brunt of it. They appreciated the new government's efforts to upgrade and invest in taluk hospitals and community health centres.

This pub is no music to residents' ears

LISHA C JAIN

RESIDENTS of JP Nagar, I Phase, have complained against a pub in their locality for violating noise norms.

They raised concerns over the loud music and nuisance created by those going to the pub.Krishna Kumar, a resident of the locality, said, "When we contacted the pub management, they stated that if we can bear the noise of Metro construction work, we should also endure this. We have police permission to play music till midnight."

Despite several complaints, the problem has not been solved. The police are yet to take action to ensure peace in the locality.

"Students in the locality could not study properly for their SSLC and PU exams because of the loud music at night," said another resident.

The pub manager told TNIE, "We have reduced the volume levels, removed three loudspeakers and are just operating three loudspeakers at 30% capacity.

We have cancelled our live shows and the DJ plays music only till 10.30 pm. I have given my contact number to residents if they face trouble again."

P Krishnakant, Deputy Commissioner of Police (South), said, "Noise pollution drive will be conducted every month to check the decibel levels of these places to ensure they are low. A test was conducted last Friday, no such violations were reported."

JP Nagar police inspector said, "We received two to three complaints during SSLC and PU exams. But when we visited the pub, we could not detect any due to vehicular traffic in the area.

Another test will be conducted soon. If there is any violation, action will be initiated."

Woman kills one-year-old daughter

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Tumakuru

A 'mentally ill' woman killed her one-year-old daughter and attempted suicide at Madhugiri town on Friday evening. Shwetha (28) cut the wrists of Krithisha with a blade around 4 pm and the latter bled profusely and turned unconscious.

Later, the accused slit the baby's throat and tried to end her life at her house behind Tippapura Choultry near Doomlite Circle. Neighbours rushed and shifted both of them to a nearby hospital where the child was declared brought dead.

The accused was shifted to district general hospital. Her husband Sivananda does menial jobs at shops. The incident occurred when he was at work. The accused, it is said, was under treatment for her mental illness. Madhugiri DySP Venkatesh Naidu told The New Indian Express that the police will probe the case thoroughly.

ED files prosecution complaint against ex-corporator Gowramma

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE ED has filed a prosecution complaint before the Special Court, Bengaluru against then corporator of Ward No 141, Azad Nagar, BBMP, CG Gowramma, and others under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA), 2002 in a disproportionate assets (DA) case. The court has taken cognisance of the offence of money laundering, stated the ED in an official release on Friday.

The ED initiated an investigation on the basis of an FIR filed by the Lokayukta, City Division, Bengaluru and subsequent chargesheet submitted against Gowramma and her husband Govindaraju under the Prevention of Corruption Act and IPC.

"Gowramma in collusion with Govindaraju earned subsequent disproportionate assets of Rs 3.47 crore during 2010 to 2012, which exceeds 62.60 percent of her legal source of income," stated the central agency.

Investigation by ED revealed that "Gowramma conspired with her husband with a mala fide intention of accumulating assets of Rs 3.47 crore. The accused and her family members have deposited huge cash in their bank accounts and also have high-value credits in said accounts. They have also purchased immovable properties in cash.

During the investigation, they have failed to provide any documentary evidence or a satisfactory explanation for these cash deposits /high-value credits and sources for purchasing of immovable properties in her and their family members' names. The accused are directly indulged in the generation, acquisition and concealment of proceeds of crime and committed the offence of money laundering under PMLA," added the ED.

Dinesh seeks re-probe into Ch'nagar O_2 tragedy

Earlier report unsatisfactory; Those responsible not made accountable

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

HEALTH Minister Dinesh Gundu Rao on Friday requested the state government to conduct an inquiry again into the Chamarajanagar District Hospital tragedy where shortage of oxygen killed 36 people in 2021 during the peak of Covid.

He told The New Indian Express that he has sought a re-investigation as the report submitted by the BJP government is not satisfactory.

"The earlier probe was not proper and the report did not hold good. The people who are liable have not been listed or made accountable. I have written to the government to constitute another committee in the DPAR (Department of Personnel and Administrative Reforms) and requested a fresh investigation," he said.

The previous government had delayed forming the committee and ordering a probe. It was passing the buck between the health and medical education departments, he said. Asking for a re-inquiry will cause further delay, he said, but quickly stated that justice will be done and the guilty will be punished.

He said time does not matter as it is a serious issue. All those responsible in the case, irrespective of their position, should be punished, he added.

In May 2021, lack of coordination between agencies and shortage of oxygen supply led to the death of 36 people at the Chamarajanagar District Hospital.

Later, a preliminary report was prepared which confirmed the death of patients in the district hospital on the night of May 3, 2021 due to lack of oxygen.

It had noted that the hospital and the district administrations had failed to address the issue. It had also noted that the deputy commissioner of Chamarajanagar, who was also the chairman of the district management committee, had failed. As the investigation intensified, names of IAS and KAS officers too were listed as responsible for the deaths.

Almost a year later, the then state government gave compensation to 24 affected families, leaving out the rest. The government had also announced that government jobs will be given to the family members, but the promise had not been met, affected families said.

Govt to reexamine allotment of lands in last six months

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

The State Government will reexamine the allotment of lands to various institutions by the previous BJP government in the last six months.

Revenue Minister Krishna Byre Gowda told reporters that the CM has directed that land allotted to various institutions in the last six months should be brought before the cabinet again for discussion. A final decision will be taken after that.

He said that the department will also relook at the allotment of lands in a hurry in the last six months, after December 2022, to see if it was justified. The minister said they have no problem if the land was given for a good cause, but the government land should not be given to some private agencies in the same as some organisations, he said.

It will be examined and placed before the cabinet and a final decision will be taken after that, he said while responding to a question on Health Minister Dinesh Gundu Rao's allegation that the BJP government had allotted lands to RSS and its organisations.

The people who are liable have not been listed or made accountable. I have written to the government to constitute another committee in the DPAR —Dinesh Gundu Rao, Health Minister

MY TAKE

WIN AS A CITIZEN, NOT JUST A VOTER

NIRAD MUDUR
Deputy Resident Editor, Karnataka
niradgmudur@newindianexpress.com

THE 2023 Karnataka assembly polls are behind us. The government is firmly in place. Congress is in power. The voters have delivered their verdict. In doing so, the latter seem to have carried out a mighty duty as a citizen — to vote, and get that black indelible mark on their left forefingers as a certificate. Now they have gone back to their lives like nothing has changed ... and that's the reason why nothing actually changes except the party that comes to power to take control of the government's reins.

Rampant traffic violations; inadequate, faulty or just plain absent civic amenities; lack of civic sense; being a party to corruption, and more: For all these, we have the government ready to be blamed and put in the dock, irrespective of the party at the helm, notwithstanding the fact that we are as much a party to all of these relentlessly persisting problems over years and decades — again, irrespective of the party at the helm.

We turn a blind eye to the fact that for every ill that we come across, we are looking for solutions from the government. If a solution fails to come, we blame the government.

While at that, no thought crosses our minds that we can play proactive roles as citizens to prevent the adverse impact of the ills haunting our society.

Look at the roads in the cities and towns in our state. Most of them lack footpaths to provide safe walking zones for pedestrians. And where footpaths do exist, people still walk on the roads as if programmed to be in the paths of overspeeding vehicles that can well mow them down, and many do.

Take this tragic incident that occurred in Bannerghatta on Bengaluru's outskirts on Wednesday morning. Bhuvan, a four-year-old boy, walking with his elder brother from his house to buy milk at a nearby store, was run over by a speeding water tanker from behind. The child died a little later, declared "brought dead" at the hospital. As happens in most such cases, the water tanker's driver fled the scene, fearing being thrashed by the angry mob that had gathered.

Two things here: first, the driver was at fault for overspeeding, and not realising that his act can potentially claim a life on a road without a footpath, and that pedestrians were present; second, children emulate adult behaviour, and in this case it was about walking on the road with a child as young as four walking on the outside, when he should have been away from the speeding vehicles. The government's fault: no safe walking zone next to the road, which made the child vulnerable to a deadly driver's indulgence with speed to get to his destination. A death under the BJP government is no better or worse than a death under a Congress or any other one. Death is death. A precious life nipped in the bud! Gone!

The party in power is not on our minds when we openly spit or urinate on the roads, or wherever possible, for quicker relief. We don't care whether it is BJP, Congress or JD(S) in power when we are half party to a corrupt act, like paying bribes, discreetly or indiscreetly demanded by some government employee, so "we can get our jobs done faster" — and yet complain about corruption reaching high levels in the state.

The government is a facilitator, a collaborator. It must provide what the citizens need for safety and sustenance of life. The citizens decide the government through voting. But after having done that, it is no good to turn away to endure the harsh effects of problems persisting due to indifference from the citizens themselves. They need to remember: the government is of the people, by the people and for the people!

CM's 'big ticket' Shakti launch

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Siddaramaiah will be giving bus tickets to women to launch the Shakti scheme on Sunday. To exhibit how committed the government is towards its guarantees, Siddaramaiah will take on the responsibilities of a conductor.

However, don't expect to see him wearing the khaki uniform. Shakti will be the first of the five guarantees to be launched.

Siddaramaiah will board a BMTC bus on Sunday from Majestic to Vidhana Soudha. According to sources from the Chief Minister's office, he will be giving free tickets to women. After he alights at Vidhana Soudha, he will attend the Shakti launch event, from where it will be rolled out statewide. When the CM launches the scheme in Bengaluru, the ministers, and legislators will launch it in their respective districts and constituencies, he said.

Siddaramaiah said this scheme will cover 50 per cent of the population. Women can take state-owned non-luxury, non-AC buses for free. They can travel anywhere within Karnataka, but not outside the state. "Shakti scheme will be a relief for the women, who are in distress because of inflation," the CM said and pointed out that the government is implementing all the guarantees within a month of coming to power. He has directed ministers and legislators to ensure that Shakti reaches all beneficiaries, irrespective of caste, religion, and community.

District deal: Siddaramaiah looks to blunt opposition salvo, win 20 LS seats

CHIEF Minister Siddaramaiah's selection of district ministers seems like a harbinger for the panchayat and Lok Sabha elections.

The task is defined for each minister as the Congress high command has given the KPCC a target of a minimum of 20 seats in the upcoming 2024 Lok Sabha polls by using the momentum of victory from the Assembly polls.

During the meeting to decide on the top jobs, the high command conveyed to Siddaramaiah the target for the general elections. Congress is also eyeing a sweep in the panchayat elections in September- October and BBMP polls.

The state government has announced the dates for the implementation of five guarantees. Siddaramaiah wants the district ministers to give all they have and ensure they are successful to counter the opposition's criticism.

He has also said that trimonthly review meetings should be held and ministers should tour their districts and interact with the people for feedback on the guarantees.

Anxious to win back both Mysuru and Chamrajnagar Lok Sabha seats, Siddaramaiah reposed his trust in his confidants HC Mahadevappa and K Venkatesh.

Apart from the political challenges, Mahadevappa has to prepare for Dasara, Panchalinga Darshan in Talakadu, and Kumbh Mela in T Narsipur.

If Siddaramaiah can wrest the two seats and fulfill the expectations of the high command, his place on the top job may be cemented. He will be supported by AICC president Mallikarjun Kharge and Congress leader Rahul Gandhi.

He has given Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar the mission to breach BJP's Bengaluru fortress, where the saffron camp has 15 MLAs.

According to the wishes of the local legislators, Byrathi Suresh has been given charge of Kolar district. His supporters are at loggerheads with Food and Civil Supplies Minister KH Muniyappa.

Caste census will open pandora's box ahead of general elections

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI @ Bengaluru

THE Siddaramaiah government's decision to accept the report on socioeconomic status of the communities, also known as the caste census report, could open a pandora's box ahead of the 2024 Lok Sabha polls.

In 2015, the previous Siddaramaiah government had commissioned the survey with H Kantharaju, who hailed from the Kuruba community, as the chairman of the Backward Classes Commission. Though the report was ready by 2019, the government could not accept it as member secretary of the commission NV Prasad did not sign it.

Though 1.35 crore households, covering over 6 crore population, were surveyed, it was alleged that the data was not accurate as nearly 25-30 lakh people were left out. An analysis of the data reveals startling facts on the communities taking advantage of reservation benefits under different categories. Also, it brings to light facts on the population of different communities. These facts were difficult for successive governments to stomach and they did not dare to accept the report, sources said.

We have no problem submitting the report, but we need legal advice on releasing the analysis

Jayaprakash Hegde, panel chairperson

But now with Siddaramaiah announcing that his government will accept the report, the commission has written to the government on clearing the hurdle of the member secretary not signing it. "We have no problem submitting the report, but we need legal advice on releasing the analysis, for which the member secretary's signature is mandatory. After getting it resolved we will submit the report to the chief secretary," commission chairman Jayaprakash Hegde told TNIE. His tenure is ending in September this year.

Since the Congress government has a full mandate, it is taking risks and may use the data to reclassify the reservation, source said. The government will use the report to restore the 4% quota for Muslims under the 2B category, another source said. "We had taken a holistic approach with 56 variables, collecting data on social, educational conditions, and employment, among other things," said one of the members.

Accepting the report will help create awareness among communities who are missing out on quota benefits and for the government to take further action, said KPCC spokesman Nataraj Gowda. While ex-chairman of the Backward Classes commission Dr CS Dwarakanath said it will help the nomadics, the most backward classes and the tribals. "I welcome the chief minister's decision to accept the report," he said.

Siddu confidant Rajanna gets Hassan

Bengaluru: Chief Minister Siddaramaiah has appointed one of his close confidants and Cooperation Minister KN Rajanna as the district in-charge minister for Hassan. Rajanna had played a key role in defeating former prime minister HD Deve Gowda, a JDS-Congress alliance candidate, in the 2019 Lok Sabha polls from the Tumakuru seat. The Madhugiri MLA was elected for the first time on a JDS ticket in 2004 from the erstwhile Bellavi constituency of the Tumakuru district. He did not follow Siddaramaiah who quit the JDS in 2005. Later, Rajanna joined the Congress. But in the 2008 Assembly polls and also in the subsequent bypolls, Rajanna lost from the Madhugiri seat as a Congress candidate. The Kuruba community had taught him a lesson for not following their leader, said political pundits. Siddaramaiah also stayed away from campaigning.

Madhu Bangarappa gets Shivamogga

The Siddaramaiah government has appointed Dr Sharan Prakash Patil as the district minister of Raichur. While, RB Timmapur is Bagalkot district minister, K Venkatesh, Chamarajanagar; Thangadagi Shivraj Sangappa, Koppal; Dr MC Sudhakar, Chikkaballapura; B Nagendra, Ballari; KN Rajanna, Hassan; D Sudhakar, Chitradurga; Mankal Vaidya, Uttara Kannada; and Madhu Bangarappa, Shivamogga.

Ensure no water scarcity: CM

Bengaluru: Chief Minister Siddaramaiah on Friday directed officials to work on a war footing to resolve water problems in various parts of the state. The CM is holding district-level officials meeting on Friday to review the situation. He directed the officials concerned to take appropriate measures to ensure that there is no scarcity of drinking water. Many places in the state, including the coastal town of Mangaluru, are facing water scarcity for the last few days and local administration is taking measures to deal with the situation. The CM also sought information about the incidents of deaths due to consuming contaminated water in Koppal. Council to meet on July 3

Bengaluru: The Legislative Council proceedings will start on July 3. Governor Thaawarchand Gehlot on Friday issued an "order" to summon the Council to meet at 12 noon on July 3. Chief Minister Siddaramaiah had earlier stated that the budget session of the state legislature will start from July 3 and he will present the state budget on July 7. While the State Government is going ahead with the implementation of five guarantees, the BJP is yet to appoint a Leader of the Opposition in the Assembly. The BJP is likely to make the appointment before the commencement of the session on July 3. ENS

BJP hits back at Hariprasad

ENS @ Shivamogga

CONGRESS leader BK Hariprasad's remark over removing a chapter on RSS founder Hedgewar has drawn sharp criticism from the BJP.

"With the Congress government in the state, some of the fatuous and unintelligent persons making irrelevant statements. CM Siddaramaiah made one good decision by keeping away such persons (like BK Hariprasad) from the cabinet," the BJP tweeted.

On Thursday, Hariprasad called Hedgewar "a coward", and said that the Congress government will not approve the inclusion of chapters on his life in textbooks as he was a "fake freedom fighter".

"There is no evidence to suggest that Hedgewar was a freedom fighter. He begged for mercy from the British. There are a lot of differences between the freedom fighters of BJP and Congress," he said.

HESCOM GIVEN US 440V SHOCK: HUBBALLI INDUSTRIES

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Hubballi

TRADE and industry bodies in the region have strongly objected to a steep increase in electricity bills and found fault with the order issued by the Karnataka Electricity Regulatory Commission (KERC).

They have sought the intervention of the government and given it a week to withdraw the increased tariffs. If not, they have threatened to hold an agitation under the banner of Karnataka Chamber of Commerce and Industry (KCCI).

Heads of KCCI, North Karnataka Small Scale Industries Association and the association of seven industrial layouts of Hubballi-Dharwad and surrounding districts met here on Friday to discuss the issue. They said industries and businesses have been given a 440 voltage shock by arbitrarily increasing some components of the power bill.

They have decided to raise their voice unanimously against the order as it has put an unbearable burden on them, hitting their business prospects. Their main objection is to the exorbitant increase in the Fuel and Power Power Purchase Cost Adjustment (FPPCA) charge, which has been increased by Rs 2.55 per unit that has been reflected in the June bill.

KCCI president Vinay Javali said the exorbitant hike in FPPCA by the Hubballi Electricity Supply Company (Hescom) has jacked up their monthly power bill by 25 to 50 per cent. Not just Hescom, electric supply companies across the state have increased the FPPCA and the procedure followed was oblique, he added. Generally, FPPCA was charged in the range of 20p to 50p per unit, but Hescom this time has increased it by ₹2.55 per unit. The escom is punishing industries and the general public to make up transmission and distribution losses and loss in power trading, he said.

Says govt consulting legal experts on filing case against Guv in SC over delay in nod for Bills

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Tiruchy

TAMIL NADU Chief Minister MK Stalin on Friday reiterated that this government will oppose any move by the neighbouring Karnataka government to construct a reservoir across the Cauvery in Mekedatu. He spoke to reporters at Tiruchy Airport before leaving for Chennai after inspecting desilting works in the delta region on Friday ahead of Mettur dam opening on June 12.

"Not only the new government in Karnataka, even the previous government was showing interest in constructing the Mekadatu dam. We were opposed to that move even at that time. Now, also we are determined to prevent any such move in the line of former CM Kalaignar M Karunanidhi," Stalin added.

Stalin also said that his government was getting legal opinion on filing a case against the Tamil Nadu Governor in the Supreme Court over delay in giving consent to Bills passed by the State Assembly.

He also affirmed the allegation of the Higher Education Minister K Ponmudy in blaming the Governor for the delay in conducting convocations and issuing degree certificates for over nine lakhs students. "That is why the State Government has passed a resolution in the Assembly to make the CM the university chancellor," he said.

Meanwhile, Stalin inspected the desilting works of irrigation canals undertaken in Thanjavur district. He said that Tamil Nadu bettered its record in terms of acreage and food grain production with every passing fiscal year since 2021-2022.

INTERIM ORDER

Wife accuses husband of rape, HC stays proceedings

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court stayed the criminal proceedings against a man based on charges of rape and other charges against his family members made by his wife after their relationship broke on the very day of their marriage in January 2023. The complaint was filed by the wife after the husband allegedly questioned her about her alleged affair with another man. "The complainant having fallen in love and being in a relationship for a few years, marries the petitioner, lives together for few days, and then alleges rape. Even the family members of the petitioner who were present at the wedding were dragged into the case. Therefore, there shall be an interim order of stay of investigation and further proceedings, till the disposal of the petition," Justice M Nagaprasanna said.

The petitioner-husband, who is 30 years old, and his family members moved the court questioning the registration of a crime by the wife, who is 25 years old. According to the husband, he and his wife were colleagues at a workplace for four years. They claim to have fallen in love and later got married on January 27, 2023, at a temple, and register their marriage before the Registrar of Marriages.

On the same day of their marriage, after celebrating his wife's birthday, he discovered her previous affair and the subsistence of that relationship, over which they squabbled.

On January 29, 2023, she left his house and threatened to end their marriage. After no contact for 32 days, she filed a complaint before the police, in which she alleged that she did not know what happened to her on the day of marriage and claim that she was intoxicated and does not remember having signed anything before the Registrar of Marriages. Though she was married, because of the said circumstances, the alleged sexual act between the two after marriage amounts to rape. However, the court stated in the interim order that the petition appends certain messages on WhatsApp and photographs taken at the temple and the office of Registrar of Marriages, which clearly show the complainant got married and signed the register before the Registrar of Marriages fully aware and of her own volition. If this cannot be a case where the complainant has abused the process of law, prima facie, there cannot be a better illustration, the court added.

SWR all set to face monsoon

ENS@ Bengaluru

South Western Railway (SWR) has conducted comprehensive safety inspections and implemented necessary safety measures ahead of the monsoon.

Special emphasis has been placed on ghat sections such as Sakleshpur-Subrahmanya Road under Mysuru division and Castle Rock-Kulem under Hubballi division. A weather warning system has been arranged to receive timely weather warning alerts from the India Meteorological Department. Pre-monsoon patrolling has been conducted extensively, with section engineers and patrolmen inspecting vulnerable locations across divisions. SWR has also established a monsoon reserve, ensuring sufficient stocks of boulders, ballast, and sandbags. "Railway officials maintain regular coordination and conduct meetings with state authorities, including irrigation and the State Disaster Response Force, during monsoon to address prevention, preparedness, rescue, and relief issues related to disasters," stated a release.

Special patrolling is initiated upon receipt of weather warnings, while watchmen are placed to monitor water levels and potential obstructions. "General Manager Sanjeev Kishore has directed all officials to accord priority to safety and to maintain close coordination with local authorities to be prepared for sudden rains, storms, or changes in weather conditions," the release added.

K'taka govt to conduct health, nutrition survey

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE Karnataka Health and Family Welfare Department (HFWD) along with the Women and Child Development Department has started conducting a health and nutrition survey in the state that will aid the departments in forming better policies and streamlining the implementation.

The survey will be conducted through a mobile app in rural and urban areas which will be given to ASHA and Anganwadi Workers in coordination with Primary Health Care (PHC) and Community Health officers to fill in the details. This is the first time such a survey will be conducted in the country. A successful pilot was conducted at Srirangapatna Taluk of Mandya district.

Details in the survey will include malnutrition, anemia in pregnant women, high-risk pregnancies and family planning methods. Mental Health and hereditary diseases in families will also be examined said the government release.

The survey aims to identify vulnerable districts and make budgetary allocations for them. The process will conclude on June 30, post that the departments will be able to identify the health status of Karnataka and suggest various schemes to address problems.

Detect diabetes with a simple antigen test, says IISc study

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

DETECTING diabetes can become as simple as taking a rapid antigen test for Covid-19. Researchers at the Indian Institute of Science (IISc) have discovered that fluctuations in levels of other hormones such as somatostatin, secreted by the pancreas, can have a major impact on developing diabetes.

Scientists argue that usually one gets diagnosed with diabetes when they have high blood glucose levels either because their pancreas does not produce sufficient insulin, or their body cells do not respond to signals from insulin that tell them to use up glucose. This can be avoided by keeping levels of somatostatin in check and potentially detecting diabetes sooner. "Changes in somatostatin secretion can be one of the first signs of diabetes," said Nikhil Gandasi, Assistant Professor, IISc.

Somatostatin is secreted by specific cells of the pancreas, called delta cells. "It regulates insulin and glucagon which is another hormone that works hand-in-hand with insulin to maintain blood sugar levels," said the study.

Researchers found that when a person is diabetic, their body will secrete less delta cells which means less Somatostatin hormone. The experiment was conducted in pancreatic cells extracted from both mice and humans. The study was published in International Journal of Molecular Sciences called 'Somatostatin Containing delta-Cell Number Is Reduced in Type-2 Diabetes.'

The team used artificially synthesised somatostatin to test its binding against several commercially available antibodies, in order to identify the one that bound to it most efficiently, which was used to develop the assay. Similar to the Covid-19 rapid antigen test, the kit works like the standard Enzyme-Linked Immunosorbent Assay that uses antibody-coated plates to identify the presence of antigens in a sample.

Currently, researchers rely on Radioimmunoassay (RIA) to detect somatostatin levels which use radioactive materials and need to be carried out in labs only. "The procedure also takes three days to complete," said Caroline Miranda, another first author and postdoctoral fellow at the University of Gothenburg." The new kit will use less blood plasma compared to the RIA method. Researchers are developing the kit into a simple hand-held device that can be mass-produced.

HC upholds death sentence, issues rules for PP

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court has issued guidelines regarding details to be provided by public prosecutors seeking confirmation of the death penalty awarded to the accused when they file an appeal against the same. A division bench of Justice Suraj Govindaraj and Justice G Basavaraja passed the order while confirming the capital punishment awarded by the trial court in 2019 to Byluru Thippaiah (43), a labourer from Kenchanagudda Halli in Ballari District, for murdering three children, his wife and sister-in-law.

Dismissing the appeal filed by Thippaiah against the trial court judgment, the court said the appellant should be hanged till his death. In February 2017, Thippaiah assaulted his wife Pakkeeramma, , suspecting her fidelity, her sister Gangamma and children Pavithra, Nagaraj and Basamma with a chopper. Four of them died on the spot, while Basamma died on the way to hospital.

"The offence relates to murder of five individuals, who are helpless women and children. The murder was committed only on the alleged suspicion of the appellant that his wife and sister-in-law were having an illicit relationship and the children were not his," the court observed. The court directed the registry to forward the case file to the District Legal Services Authority to determine the compensation money and make arrangements to pay it to the daughter of the deceased.

The court also directed the registry to forward a copy of this order to the Director of Prosecution and also to the Director-General of Police for compliance by issuing directions or standard operating procedures to all public prosecutors and investigating officers making it mandatory for them to comply with the directions.

Details to be submitted by public prosecutors

Report from the jail superintendent with regard to the nature of work done, conduct and behaviour in jail, psychological and physiological evaluation at a date as close as possible to the commissioning of the offence, at the time when the death penalty is demanded. Report from the jurisdictional probation officer on details of early and present family background of the appellant-accused, details of siblings, any history of violence or criminal antecedents, including conviction or acquittal or pending, parents of the accused, education and social economic background, whether he can be reformed or rehabilitated.

Youth dies five days after manja thread slits his throat

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Gadag

A youth, whose throat was slit by a kite string (manja) at Damabal Naka in Gadag on June 4, died at Gadag Institute of Medical Sciences (GIMS) on Friday.

The deceased P Ravi (28) came to Gadag a few years ago and was working in a bar and restaurant in the town. He hailed from Narayan Devarakere village in Vijayanagar district.

Ravi was returning home on his motorcycle when the kite string slit his throat. Some boys were flying kites at Dambal Naka locality as part of Kar Hunnime festival at that time. A profusely bleeding Ravi was rushed to GIMS. Doctors, who treated him, said, "It was a grievous injury and Ravi responded to our treatment initially. However, he died on Friday." Ravi's mother and relatives were with him at GIMS.

An official from Gadag district administration said, "We have banned plastic kites and manja string. But traders, who visit Gadag during shandies and festivals, sell them. We are looking into the matter. We will take action to prevent such incidents in future."

Woman files complaint against directors of handwriting institute

PRAVEEN KUMAR @Bengaluru

A woman has filed a complaint against two directors of a private handwriting institute on Church Road in Basavanagudi accusing them of cheating her.

Kavya (name changed), the complainant from Banashankari III Stage, enrolled her daughter for handwriting classes in the institute by paying Rs 25,000 in two installments in 2020. However, classes were cancelled due to the pandemic and the institute did not respond to her calls to refund the fee.

As the institute did not refund her money, she filed a criminal complaint against Rafiullah Baig and Imran Baig, directors of the institute, on Tuesday.

"My daughter was studying in Class 9 when I enrolled her for handwriting classes. Due to the pandemic, no classes were held. The directors, who are brothers, promised us to conduct online classes. But they did not. I was unable to reach them as their mobile phones were switched off. Even the institute was shut. Therefore, I filed a police complaint," the complainant told TNIE.

Meanwhile, Kavya's relative managed to contact one of the directors and he is said to have assured her of refunding the money if they gave a letter stating that the student was unable to attend classes due to personal problems.

"We refused to give any such letter as classes were necessary for Kavya's daughter as she was appearing for her Class 10 board exams the following year. But the director stopped responding to my calls later," Kavya's relative said. When TNIE tried to contact the phone numbers displayed on the institute's website, they were switched off. "We will soon summon the directors by serving them notices," said a police officer.

TRIPLE TRAIN CRASH

Odisha govt to renovate school used as morgue

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bhubaneswar

THE Balasore administration on Friday started demolition of the 65-year-old Bahanaga high school which was turned into a makeshift morgue following the triple train accident on June 2.

The Odisha government has decided to renovate the building under its 5T school transformation programme.

The demolition of the school was initiated in the presence of police, Balasore tehsildar and local administration. The move came after the school management committee of Balasore recommended demolition of the building citing the students were reluctant to return to the classes after it was used as a morgue. Temporary arrangements will be made to conduct classes for students till the new building is constructed.

The decision for transformation of the school under 5T and its conversion into a model school (Adarsha school) was approved by Odisha Chief Minister Naveen Patnaik on Friday.

The CM has asked Balasore collector Dattatraya Bhausaheb Shinde to submit a detailed project report in this regard to the chief minister's office within 15 days. The CMO said residents of Bahanaga and teachers played a vital role in rescuing injured passengers in the immediate aftermath of the accident. It was decided to include the school under the 5T programme to encourage and acknowledge their service.

Earlier, two teams of the school and mass education department and district administration inspected the condition of the school after it was sanitised.

THE GOOD SAMARITANS OF BALASORE: AN ODE TO HUMANE INSTINCT

EVERY humanitarian disaster comes with a pile of death and destruction. And more often than not, such human misery finds its own nameless heroes — those who throw themselves in danger to save others and provide assistance without caring for a semblance of recognition or reward. Odisha's Balasore district is a shining example of the local community that rose to its feet to save hundreds in one of India's most disastrous railway mishaps. When tragedy befell the nondescript railway station at Bahanaga, scores of men, women and children drawn from all strata of the society turned the first responders. Even before trained disaster rapid action force and firefighters arrived at the scene that could leave even the bravest of human beings shiver at the sight of brutality the mishap presented on the night of June 2, tribal inhabitants had rushed to pull out the fatally hurt, taken them home to provide first aid, food and even transport to nearest health facilities. A small chemist operating barely 100 metres from the crash site threw his shop open to help the injured. A teacher couple that lived nearby admitted passengers to the local high school and even turned the educational institution into a temporary morgue when the body count grew. As hundreds of villagers scouted for the injured and helped them out of the mangled coaches of Coromandel Express, young NCC cadets joined forces as rescue and relief operations picked up the pace. About 180 kilometres away at the district headquarters of Balasore, where the number of gravely injured grew by the hour, residents queued up throughout the night to donate blood so the hospital does not face any shortage.

It isn't easy to measure such an extraordinary and spontaneous humanitarian response by the people of Balasore in the face of a catastrophic situation. But for them, the tragedy's magnitude could have been beyond comprehension. As the true nature of the devastation unfolded a day later, compliments poured in. A befitting tribute to these faceless heroes came from Prime Minister Narendra Modi, who thanked the locals for their service. After a visit to the site, Chief Minister Naveen Patnaik said he was truly proud of the people of Balasore. For a state battered and bruised by natural disasters, the response Bahanaga tragedy received embodies the unmatched resilience of the communities that stand up to the crisis every time it knocks at their doors.

ROAD TO PATNA PAVED WITH DISTRUST, DIVIDE

THE opposition parties have decided to get together at Patna on June 23 to explore the possibility of mounting a joint campaign against Prime Minister Narendra Modi-led National Democratic Alliance government in the 2024 general elections. Bihar chief minister Nitish Kumar has taken the initiative to bring the opposition together. He has successfully brought Aam Aadmi Party and Trinamool Congress on one platform with the Congress. But whether he can make them do business together is to be seen. The AAP leadership, including Delhi chief minister Arvind Kejriwal and his Punjab counterpart Bhagwant Mann, has been travelling nationwide to rally support against the Centre's ordinance on the Delhi government's jurisdiction over services. They have also sought time from Congress President Mallikarjun Kharge to seek his support. The Congress is to decide on the ordinance and is engaged in internal consultations. It has not yet met the AAP leaders. Trinamool Congress chief Mamata Bannerjee has agreed to join the opposition meeting, but it is doubtful if she will agree to a seat-sharing with Congress. The optics of stage-sharing and hand-holding notwithstanding, the road to Patna is paved with distrust, personal ambitions and deep divisions over the issue of leadership of the opposition. This reason has kept several opposition leaders away from the meeting. Even leaders like K Chandrashekar Rao of the BRS, Naveen Patnaik of the Biju Janata Dal, Mayawati of the Bahujan Samaj Party, and Jaganmohan Reddy of the YSR Congress Party, who are not part of the BJP camp, have refused to attend. No doubt, some of them follow the policy of equidistance from both the BJP and the Congress. Still, they are not ready to join hands with an opposition including the Congress, even while being on the same page with the rest of the opposition on issues such as the misuse of central agencies and curtailing of states' rights. There is no agreement over the leadership issue, even among those who have decided to attend the meeting. Nitish, who has been the main mobiliser of the group, wants to lead it. But the Congress, fresh from a landslide Karnataka victory, appears in no mood to play second fiddle to any regional party. That said, June 23 may lead to more such meetings which may result in a broad understanding and even a seat-sharing pact.

QUICK TAKE

GENDER INCLUSION PLANNING

THE joy of shifting to a modern court complex in Ooty was short-lived after realising it has no toilets for women. Amends are being made, but the larger issue is about urban development planning neglecting gender, and disability, inclusion. Equality advocates often contest the designing of urban spaces excluding women and marginalised groups. Separate women's conveniences and access pathways for people with disabilities are basic features that common sense dictates. The government recently gave an extra year to complete building 100 smart cities. Reviewing the project is necessary to see that its planning has an inherently inclusive approach.

Introspection must begin within Indian Railways to address some serious questions concerning safety systems

RAIL SAFETY CAN NO LONGER BE BUSINESS AS USUAL

SUDHANSHU MANI

Retd General Manager, Indian Railways, Creator of Train 18/Vande Bharat and Independent Rail Consultant

SOUMYADIP SINHA

THE Balasore rail tragedy of June 2 has shaken the nation. The last time an accident of this magnitude with so many fatalities occurred was in 1999 at Gaisal in the North Frontier Railway zone, in which two trains collided head-on and Nitish Kumar, the then Minister for Railways, resigned owning moral responsibility. While Gaisal was a case of grossly unsafe working for which the management, apart from the lower rail officials, was culpable, it is now reasonably clear that Balasore was a case of unauthorised human intervention in the fail-safe interlocking system by a Signal Maintainer, who has access to its equipment hut or relay room, to expedite his maintenance work so that train running is not affected or as Indian Railways (IR) seems to believe, a nefarious criminal act of sabotage to cause a massive accident.

The interlocking of signals and routes is a system of relays and electronic logic gates which ensures that a train is monitored and controlled by signals and other ground equipment in an assigned route within the criss-cross of railway tracks such that it would have an unhindered path without running into head or rear of another train. In this case, this interlocking was tampered with by an illegal manual interposition to set a path to the mainline without a matching setting of the route, which remained set to an occupied loop line, thereby causing a catastrophic collision.

Two investigations are on, the statutory one by the Commissioner of Rail Safety and another by CBI. The government engaged the latter in an extraordinary move. While the opposition has called the CBI enquiry a red herring to divert attention from IR's culpability, the government must believe there was some foul play at work. It is expected that the culprits will soon be identified. However, introspection and deliberations must begin within IR to address some serious questions concerning safety systems and culture and work towards devising a safer system pending the enquiry reports.

A natural question is whether the Electronic Interlocking system of IR is so weak that it can fail and cause such havoc. The answer is that it is not weak but fail-safe, and in case of a failure or conflict in its working, it reverts to a safe mode turning the signals red, eliminating any chance of a mishap. The question, however, that follows is whether the Interlocking system is so amenable to mala fide or careless interference that a conflicting route can be set for an advancing train.

The core of the interlocking system is installed in a double-locked relay room located in the station building near the Station Master's chamber, and the Station Master and the Maintainer control admission to it jointly. The Maintainer can tamper with the circuitry here, in cohorts with the Station Master or otherwise, but it does not appear to be possible for a criminal to gain access to this room unless it is an intrusion by force. At the same time, only the authorised Maintainer controls access to the equipment placed in huts and location boxes located at remote places in a station yard. Therefore, they are more susceptible to unauthorised human intervention. Putting things in perspective, however, this layout of critical signalling equipment is similar to that obtained worldwide, and it is not inherently unsafe. It is understood that in Balasore, a Signal Maintainer accessed the equipment in a hut near a level crossing and bypassed the interlocking employing a shortcut to complete his work quickly to ensure that train running was not delayed or disturbed (or as IR would have it, perhaps by someone with the criminal intention to cause an accident).

So, you have a situation in which the authorised Maintainer, intending to conduct hasty resolution of a fault or speedy execution of regular maintenance work, cuts corners putting the lives of thousands at risk or a saboteur out to give shape to diabolical designs. It is not dissimilar to any other computerised safety system, which a criminal can hack into and interfere with to destabilise the system and cause a major accident.

This has to be a subject of closer scrutiny to re-evaluate the system and build more safeguards. Since the provision of a double lock system, even for the remote huts in stations, is impractical given the requirement of station staff to move to farther locations, a digital double lock operated with mobile phones or similar devices in a safe band may be considered. If this also is not doable, experts will need to go into the nitty gritty and think of foolproof protection.

Many IR officers would tell you that they have encountered some cases in which a Maintainer acted irresponsibly, creating a situation of an accident waiting to happen. The enquiry might uncover if such incautious indulgences were prevalent and, if so, whether they were dealt with an exemplary punishment to deter such actions in future.

Experts rightly opined that IR has indiscriminately increased the number of trains in its already saturated sections and has relegated its safety to the second rung behind the running of trains. True, but is it reversible? IR can reduce passenger trains only at the cost of strong political fallout. In contrast, any reduction in freight trains is counter-productive as it would cut down the earnings of IR, which is already in the financial doldrums. They have also lamented the absence of a culture of safety. No gainsaying against that, but it would take time to teach a spirit in all railwaymen that safety is paramount and takes precedence over running of trains.

Immediate action to improve safety should involve more focus on the upgradation of infrastructure. While vacancies in Safety categories should be filled up, greater stress is needed for the skilling of workmen. There is no scarcity of funds, thanks to the mammoth investments that the Central Government is now making in IR, and this should be leveraged to proliferate Kavach, the comprehensive signalling system IR developed at the rate of 2500 km per year and undertake large-scale works to clear all backlogs of track renewal and rehabilitation by tripling the allotment of funds.

GDP GROWTH, HIGH REMITTANCES AND FRAGILE KERALA ECONOMY

DR K V JOSEPH

Former member, Kerala Public Expenditure Committee and Director, International Institute of Migration and Development

THE GDP growth rate in Kerala at constant prices during 2021-22 has been 12.01 per cent. It was well above the all-India level. Kerala's per capita net product at constant prices was Rs 1,48,790 against Rs 93,168 at the all-India level. However, the per capita income of Kerala was lower than that of the all-India level in the past. It was Rs 1,385 in 1980-81 at the then prices against Rs 1,537 at the all-India level. The upward trend could take place because of the growth of GDP at a faster rate. Such a trend has been in the offing since the 1980s. If so, how Kerala could surpass the all-India level in economic growth since the 1980s becomes an issue requiring serious examination.

The growth which Kerala exhibited contains certain peculiarities. Both agriculture and industry, the basic sectors, were exhibiting stagnation. The index of the increase in net value added in the agricultural sector in 2021-22 with 1980—81, as the base was only 1018, while the index of the economy as a whole was 20,148. Similarly, the index of the manufacturing sector was only 12,213. While the two basic sectors displayed only stunted growth, the indices of construction, trade, transport, banking and ownership of houses were exceptionally high. Except for construction, all these sectors form part of the service sector. The higher rate of growth of the economy was, by and large, due to the better performance of the service sector, whose index of the net addition to the value reached 36277 per cent in 2021-22. As a ratio to the total GDP, the share of the service sector accounted for 65 per cent in 2021-22 against 36 per cent in 1980-81. If so, how could the service sector exhibit such buoyancy in Kerala?

Kerala became a recipient of remittances from foreign countries, the earnings of the expatriates of Kerala working in foreign lands since the 1980s. It was around Rs 824 crore then. It began to increase steadily since. World Bank said India received $87 billion in 2020-21. It is reported that Kerala gets approximately 19 per cent of the remittances to India. If so, Kerala would have received around Rs 1,10,000 crore, accounting for about 15 per cent of the GDP against only about 3 per cent for the country.

The remittances do not form part of the GDP. They provide purchasing power for migrant households. If invested in agriculture or industry, they can promote the economy's growth. The utilisation of the remittances for various purposes, like the purchase of a commodity from a retailer, or construction of a house or hiring the service of a driver or beautician, can also facilitate the growth of the economy as such instances create value additions. In such cases, value creation ensues only when such activities or services are performed as utilisation. However, adding to value cannot be easily ascertained in such cases as the output consists of intangible service. As a way out, the earnings of "service providers" are taken as a proxy for ascertaining addition to value as adopted in the national income calculation.

> Growth occurred only in those activities or purposes where remittances were utilised. The important purposes for which the migrant households spend the remittances are for better comforts, posh houses, education of children, purchase of gold, and depositing in the banks

Growth occurred only in those activities or purposes where remittances were utilised. The important purposes for which the migrant households spend the remittances are for better comforts, posh houses, education of children, purchase of gold, and depositing in the banks. Such purposes, directly or indirectly, are related to house construction, trade, transport, banking, etc. They form the channels through which remittances penetrate the economy and foster growth. Their contribution to the state domestic product, which was meagre in size when remittances were in the offing, has grown gigantic with the influx of remittances. The contribution of remittances to the buoyancy of these sectors is apparent. As these sectors expanded, the number of persons engaged in rendering their services has also gone up. The number of workers like masons, painters, plumbers, taxi drivers, auto drivers, beauticians, retail dealers, shop assistants etc., has recently increased in the state. The labour shortage met with the induction of labour from other states, should also be construed as the outcome of the expansion of such activities. Side by side, the remuneration of workers in the state has gone up to the highest in India. The remittances are being utilised to meet the growing volume of remuneration, and so, in turn, the economy could record a high growth rate.

The service sectors' personnel transport, deliver or work on the commodities like food articles, consumer durables or construction materials, invariably imported from other states. The import bill totalled Rs 1,28,000 crore in 2021-22 against Rs 74,000 crore from exports. Apparently, the import bill could be met from the remittances. Since large-scale leakages from the state take place for imports, further growth of the economy on a multiplier basis is out of the question.

In sum, it is the inflated level of the earnings of the growing number of workers in the service sector which rules the roost in the GDP growth in Kerala well above the all-India level. By and large, it is an artificial one relying entirely on remittances with the least dependence on the productive sectors of Kerala. The seeming buoyancy is sure to crumble once the remittances fall. RBI says Kerala's share came down to 10.5 per cent of the total inflow to India in 2021-22 from 19 per cent in 2020-21. The Gulf countries from where the bulk of the remittances arrives have already started steps to reduce the dependence on imported labour. It is time to revive agriculture and promote industry, the basic sectors marginalised in the wake of the remittance boom, to minimize any adverse impact arising from a fall in remittances.

Canada rebuke

Our External Affairs Minister, S Jai Shankar, has rightly rebuked Canada for letting Khalistani separatists to glorify assassination of India's Prime Minister late Indira Gandhi. His sharp reaction condemning the act of violence in this regard should be hailed.

CM visit

The US visit of the Kerala Chief Minister and his entourage is ill-timed as it comes when the CM himself acknowledges the fact that the state is going through a very severe financial crunch. Recently there was a news report that the state's paddy farmers who feed us have not received the entire funds for the produce procured by the govt.

Input costs

Around 80% of the increase in the MSP will be eaten away by hike in labour wages, transport cost, hike in the rates of agricultural machinery like transplanter, harvester, weeder, hidden charges, etc. Middlemen and traders and stockists will benefit but the consumers will suffer.

Bank loans

Like railways (facing periodical train accidents), banks too need technical overhauling to avoid financial accidents, i.e., increase in unpaid loans. Development of a foolproof, digitalised loan-disbursement package with timely alerts can save bank employees, banks and loan takers too from losses. Bank bosses should not force loan section employees to disburse loans quickly to achieve their targets.

Bajrang Sena's merger with Grand Old Party seen as a counter to VHP's youth wing

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bhopal

It's rare to see a prominent BJP leader and a veteran Congress leader talk in a similar tone on a common subject.

When questioned by the media in Indore on Wednesday about the recent merger of the right wing Bajrang Sena with the Congress, the party's national general secretary Digvijaya Singh expressed ignorance. "Kaun Bajrang Sena, mujhe jaankari nahin (which Bajrang Sena? I don't have information about the Bajrang Sena you're talking about)," Singh responded to a media query on Wednesday.

This was followed by a remark by Madhya Pradesh home minister and the state government's official spokesperson Narottam Mishra, who for long has been known for his pro-Hindu public utterances. "Had anyone heard about this Bajrang Sena prior to its merger with the Congress?" Mishra asked at a press conference on Thursday.

On Tuesday, at the state Congress headquarters in Bhopal, a fresh dose of soft Hindutva was being administered to the Kamal Nath-led party.

The party headquarters resonated with the slogans of 'Jai Sri Ram' on Tuesday, as Bajrang Sena merged with the Congress in the presence of state party chief Kamal Nath and the new entrant into the party, Deepak Joshi.

Deepak Joshi is a former Madhya Pradesh minister and son of late former chief minister Kailash Joshi (the first BJP chief minister of Madhya Pradesh). Deepak joined the Congress on May 6 and harbours a strong desire to contest on the Congress ticket against CM Shivraj Singh Chouhan from the latter's pocket-borough Budhni in Sehore district. Deepak is also seen as the brain behind Bajrang Sena's merger with the Congress.

Deepak told the ex-MP CM that Bajrang Sena, unlike the Bajrang Dal, works for the unification of society. The outfit's national convenor Raghunandan Sharma, while remembering the decade-long stint of Singh as the chief minister (1993-2003), recounted how along with Joshi, he worked for the Chouhan-led BJP in MP in the past. "We'll now work with the Congress to end the 18 years of BJP's corrupt rule," said Sharma.

To strengthen Vindhya base, CM woos tribals

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bhopal

Madhya Pradesh Chief Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan marked the 123rd martyrdom day of tribal warrior and freedom fighter Birsa Munda, by performing the 'bhoomi-pujan' of the conservation and restoration work of the Kolgarhi Fort of tribal Kol rulers in Rewa district on Friday.

It is a project worth over ₹3.24 crore and will be carried out by the State Tourism Development Corporation in Teonthar block of Rewa district. "Kolgarhi symbolises the pride of the earliest Kol kings. Along with its restoration, the history and pride of the Kol tribal society will also be displayed," said the CM.

The Friday event assumed particular significance as the Kol tribe is the largest tribal group in the Vindhya region comprising seven east MP districts – Satna, Sidhi, Singrauli, Sidhi, Umaria, Shahdol and Anuppur. The region consists of 30 assembly seats, out of which 24 were won by the BJP in the 2018 polls.

Vindhya region was BJP's lone bright spot in the 2018 assembly polls. Though it swept the region in 2018, the contest this time is likely to be tough in the upcoming polls owing to the anti-incumbency factor.

The party will have to face a resurgent Congress, the AAP and the Vindhya Janta Party (a new outfit floated by rebel BJP MLA Narayan Tripathi).

HC steps in to ensure peaceful polling in Bengal rural elections

PRONAB MONDAL @ Kolkata

HOURS after the newly appointed state election commissioner announced that panchayat election will be held in one phase on July 8 across West Bengal, the mercury in Bengal politics started soaring as both the BJP and the Congress moved the Calcutta High Court with a slew of demands.

The court, in its preliminary observation, said the deadline for submitting nomination is not adequate and asked the state poll panel to come up with its response on Monday.

The court also directed the election commission to ensure videography of the entire process of filing the nominations.

State election commissioner Rajeeva Sinha, who was the former chief secretary of the state, said the poll panel would consider the deadline for filing nominations, but the day slated for the elections would not be changed.

Sources in the commission said the poll panel is not in favour of deploying Central force personnel demanded by the BJP. "We will seek additional police personnel from the neighbouring states such as Bihar, Jharkhand and Odisha. Policemen with lathis will maintain the queue of voters and armed police personnel will stand guard at the polling booths," said a commission official.

The Congress also demanded allowing the state election office or district magistrate to accept nomination of candidates citing the violence in previous rural polls. The 2018 panchayat elections witnessed massive violence and blood-shed during the filing of nominations and opposition parties alleged thousands of their candidates were not allowed to submit their nominations.

The apex court also expressed its surprise over the issue of 30% of total seats won by the ruling Trinamool Congress uncontested.

Chavan likely to be Maha's next Cong prez

Former Maharashtra chief minister Ashok Chavan, who is rumoured to be the next president of the Maharashtra Congress, recently met with Congress president Mallikarjun Kharge. Since Nana Patole, the Maharashtra Congress's current president, has failed to mobilise the resources required to progress the party, there is a clamour for a change in the party's leadership. Following Rahul Gandhi's Bharat Jodo Yatra and the Congress' notable victory in Karnataka, there is a favourable environment for the party in the state. The leadership of the Congress believes that Chavan should be appointed president at this time because he can be very important in the upcoming election.

Vinod Tawade back in political battleground

Vinod Tawade, the general secretary of the BJP, who had been denied a ticket for the Maharashtra State Assembly election, has again become active in state politics. Tawade, whose leadership was scaled back by Maharashtra's BJP leadership, yet actively participated in party affairs rather than pouting. He was given a position of authority in Haryana and even a few northeastern states. As a result, Maharashtra is abuzz with Tawade returning to Maharashtra with significant responsibilities.

BJP not hostile to regional parties: PM

In a meeting with chief ministers of the BJP-run states in Delhi recently, Prime Minister Narendra Modi had made it clear that there should be no message or impression that the BJP is hostile to the interests of regional parties. Taking a cue, Maharashtra deputy chief minister Devendra Fadnavis had a meeting with MNS leader Raj Thackeray. According to sources, the BJP may use Thackeray's railway network to further their partnership in Maharashtra. It's interesting that Thackeray's MNS has a symbol of a train. When two significant regional parties such as the Uddhav Thackeray-led Shiv Sena and the Sharad Pawar-led NCP are present in Maharashtra, the BJP is finding it difficult to build a narrative in their favour.

Pawar gets death threat as Shinde orders probe, promises more security

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

Maharashtra chief minister Eknath Shinde on Friday said his government has taken serious note of the death threat to Nationalist Congress Party (NCP) chief Sharad Pawar and he has given instructions for a probe. While Mumbai police registered a first information report (FIR) over the threat, Pune cops reviewed security at Pawar's residence in Shivajinagar area of the city.

Calling Pawar a "senior respected leader", Shinde said in a statement that all necessary precautions will be taken for his security. Police have been asked to tighten Pawar's security if needed, the CM said.

According to the NCP, Pawar (82) received a message on social media that read "he will meet the same fate as (Narendra) Dabholkar soon." Dabholkar, who fought against superstitious beliefs, was shot dead by two bike-borne assailants during his morning walk in Pune on August 20, 2013.

"I've full faith in the police entrusted to look after law and order of the state. That is why I am not worried," said Pawar

A case has been registered at the LT Marg police station in Mumbai. It was reported that the threatening message was posted by the BJP worker Saurabh Pimpalekar from Amarawati. Saurabh's bio on social media says that he is a BJP activist and "hates secularism." The NCP also circulated the photo of the accused with Maharashtra BJP chief Chandrashekar Bawankule. The Amarawati police have been looking for Saurabh.

A delegation of NCP workers led by Pawar's daughter Supriya Sule met Mumbai police chief Vivek Phansalkar demanding action. "I received a message on WhatsApp for Pawar Sahab. He has been threatened through a website. Such low-level politics should stop," said Supriya.

Mayawati, HAM's Manjhi to stay away from Oppn conclave

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow
RAMASHANKAR @ Patna

Even as opposition parties' efforts to stitch together a grand alliance to take on the BJP in 2024 Lok Sabha elections are on, Bahujan Samaj Party (BSP) has decided to chart its own course and project Mayawati as its Prime Ministerial candidate for the 2024 Lok Sabha polls.

Recently, Janata Dal (United) lead KC Tyagi had claimed that no invitation was sent to BSP chief Mayawati for the proposed congregation of the opposition leaders in Patna on June 23.

Shortly after the JD-U leader's statement, the BSP made it clear that it did not want to be a part of the strategy chalked out by other parties for 2024 challenge and instead it would chart out its own course.

Commenting over the issue, a senior BSP leader seeking anonymity said that even after several rounds of meetings wherein Nitish Kumar had been roaming around to meet the heads of various opposition parties to prepare the ground against the BJP, it was not clear as to who would be projected as Opposition's PM candidate. "The BSP, however, has decided to project Behan Mayawatiji as our PM candidate," he said.

In neighbouring Bihar, former Bihar chief minister and patron of Hindustani Awam Morcha (HAM) Jitan Ram Manjhi is unhappy that he has not been invited by grand alliance partners for the meeting of non-BJP parties in Patna on June 23.

At a meeting of party's core committee on Friday, he said: "Our party has not been invited to the Opposition parties meeting scheduled to be held on June 23." Manjhi, however, said that he has vowed to continue with Bihar chief minister Nitish Kumar, who is spearheading Opposition unity at the national level.

Earlier, he along with party MLAs had called on Nitish at latter's residence. At the meeting, HAM reiterated its demand for five Lok Sabha seats in the next year's general election. He said that leaders of grand alliance would consider party's demand and give seats under seat-sharing arrangements.

The HAM's demand of five Lok Sabha seats is likely to trigger internal differences among seven constituents of grand alliance in the state. HAM has four MLAs in the state assembly.

Mayawati's case is different, especially after her party's disastrous performance in UP Assembly polls and its general decline in states such as Punjab. It could be that she wants to put pressure on the opposition parties to give her more weightage as parties sit together to flesh out the final strategy for LS polls.

Maha trouble brewing in BJP-Sena ties, CM's son offers to quit LS seat

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

Trouble is brewing the alliance between BJP and Maharashtra CM Eknath Shinde-led Shiv Sena over Kalyan-Dombivali Lok Sabha seat which is represented by Shrikant Shinde, son of the chief minister.

Shrikant Shinde in a video message released on Friday evening said he is ready to resign as Lok Sabha MP if the BJP is adamant getting his Kalyan Dombivali seat over a trifle issue.

"BJP and its party workers should not make the one of the senior police officer postings as a big issue. This is the small matter. We have to work for the larger goal and to make Narendra Modi once again as Prime minister of India," Dr Shrikant Shinde said.

There is simmering tensions between the BJP and Eknath Shinde's Shiv Sena came to the fore a day after the inauguration of several projects in Dombivli by CM Eknath Shinde and deputy CM Devendra Fadnavis in Diva. BJP Leaders and party workers of the Kalyan-Dombivli unit, angry over the Shiv Sena's deliberate omission of Devendra Fadnavis photograph from hoardings and posters, passed a resolution demanding the transfer of senior police inspector Suresh Bagde of Manpada police station considered close to Shiv Sena MP Shrikant Shinde.

BJP leaders have alleged that Bagde was instrumental in filing a false case of molestation against BJP's Dombivi Mandal president Nandu Joshi Shrikant Shinde said he has been representing Kalyan Dombivali seat for the last nine years and undertaken plenty of development projects and people overwhelmingly voted for him.

"If BJP has a better candidate than him and then he is ready to resign, then he is ready to do it but BJP should not make small thing as an issue and create trouble in Shiv Sena-BJP alliance," Shinde said.

BJP has been eyeing Kalyan Dombivali seat saying this is RSS-BJP dominated seat so they should get back this Lok Sabha seat.

Union minister Anurag Thakur has been entrusted with the responsibility of Kalyan-Dombivali seat, while Maharashtra cabinet minister and BJP MLA Ravindra Chavan has been tipped to contest from this seat.

Uproar over heavy pilgrim rush to Char Dham

NARENDRA SETHI @ Dehradun

A record 43.5 lakh pilgrims have registered for the Char Dham Yatra, of which 24.5 lakh have already completed the holy journey. As the Yatra sets a new record this year, environmental experts in Uttarakhand have expressed concern over the government's "achievement," calling it the "beginning of a big danger."

"Last year, over 46 lakh pilgrims visited Char Dham and Hemkund Sahib," Yogendra Gangwar, Uttarakhand Tourism Development Board joint director, told this newspaper.

"This year, the number of registrations has crossed 43.5 lakh in just one-and-a-half months, which clearly indicates that last year's record will definitely be surpassed," Gangwar said.

However, environmentalists are quite worried about the rising number of pilgrims.

Speaking to The New Indian Express, Magsaysay Award-winning environmentalist and a recipient of Padma Bhushan Chandi Prasad Bhatt said, "There was a time when wearing red clothes was forbidden in this Himalayan region. There was also a ban on speaking loudly and making noise, as there was a risk of the glacier being adversely affected due to the vibration of the noise."

Expressing concern over the long queues of the pilgrims, Bhatt said, "The ill-effects have also been seen on wild animals and flora. Today we are ignoring all these warnings, which resulted in disasters such as the one in 2013."

He said people will ultimately suffer if we continue to treat the Himalayas unfavorably," said Bhatt, the 90-year-old environmentalist.

Environmentalist and scientist Dev Raghvendra, who is campaigning vigorously to save the Himalayas from pollution, said the government was projecting the arrival of lakhs of pilgrims to the Char Dham Yatra as its achievement, but the hills have only a limited capacity to bear the load.

"The government should immediately change its approach towards the pilgrims, otherwise we are again writing a script for the recurrence of a major disaster," said Raghvendra.

According to the information received, within 45 days of the Yatra that started on April 22, 121 pilgrims from all over the country died. Of these, 58 pilgrims died during the Kedarnath Yatra. Bad weather, severe cold, heart attack and other reasons were cited as the reasons behind the deaths.

As many as 634 people have been injured so far and, 20 mules carrying these devotees have also died. On the Yamunotri route, 470 pilgrims were injured, while 21 horses and mules died.

According to the report, most of the pilgrims who died were from Bengal, Maharashtra, UP, Madhya Pradesh and Gujarat.

According to a report, oxygen service was provided to more than 2,500 pilgrims due to breathing problems. All of them were trekking to reach the temple located at an altitude of 11,775 feet.

No harassment of honest officers in 9 years: Minister

Strong, perceptible reforms introduced during Modi govt, says Jitendra Singh

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR

Union Minister Jitendra Singh interacts with media on nine years' achievements of Ministry of Personnel, Public Grievances and Pensions on Friday | PTI

UNION Minister Dr Jitendra Singh on Friday said the Prime Minister Narendra Modi-led government has ensured that there will be no harassment or intimidation of performing officers. Reiterating PM Modi's stand of zero tolerance against corruption, he said officers have been given free hand to take country to new heights.

Speaking to reporters on Friday, Dr Singh, who is minister of state (independent charge) personnel, public grievances, pension and PMO, claimed the government in the last nine years has brought "strong and perceptible reforms" in the administrative wings through a slew of initiatives, including 'Mission Karmayogi' and others.

"We have set many benchmarks in capacity building as part of good governance among the administrative officers in the last nine years.... The government has established Capacity Building Commission (CBC) adopting uniform approaches for capacity building in administrative reforms", he said. National Standards for Civil Service Training Institutions have also been launched by CB", the minister said, adding that Centres of Excellence are being set up in every Central Training Institutions.

Highlighting the government's performance on the participation of women in every field, especially in the administrative wing, the minister said the government has raised representation of women in government jobs,

"Even in cases of where the government servant dies before completing a service of 7 years, family pension shall be payable to the family at enhanced rate of 50 per cent of the last pay for first 10 years and thereafter at the rate of 30 per cent of last pay," he said.

IAF displays long-range striking power

A Sukhoi 30MKI fighter being refuelled during the exercise | IAF

THE Indian Air Force on Friday demonstrated long-range maritime strike capability as its frontline combat fighters, Sukhoi 30MKIs, carried out long-range sorties deep into the Indian Ocean towards the Western Seaboard.

Announcing the operations, the IAF said, "Another outing into the Indian Ocean Region! This time, with IAF Su-30s flying nearly eight hours, on a different axis." Both Seaboards covered, it added.

This is within a few days of another such operation carried out towards the Eastern Seaboard, into the Indian Ocean. Over a week ago, 4 IAF Rafales flew a long-range mission for over six hours into the Indian Ocean Region. The aircraft 'fought' their way through a large force engagement en route to their Weapon Release Point. Pickle on time, weapon on target-the IAF way!"

Flight refuellers were also deployed to stretch the operational radius.

The sources said, "It was validation of wartime concepts and the mission simulated delivering ordinance on target evading through the enemy obstacles."

This will add up to the country's offensive jointly by the Indian Navy and the Indian Air Force in case of any requirement, said the source.

This exercise holds significance keeping the country's heavy dependence on the sea for its economic well-being. About 95 percent of India's trade by volume, over 74 per cent by value, more than 80 per cent of its oil and gas traveling over the sea is done through the sea lanes of communication passing through the Indian Ocean.

While the Indian navy is the primary custodian of maritime security and defence, the IAF also has designated Fighter Squadron specifically for the maritime operational role.

New heads of Army directorates take charge

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

IN a major reshuffle at the senior level, the Indian Army inducted its new Directorate heads which includes at the Directorate General (DG) of Military Intelligence, Strategic Planning and Information Warfare. They all took charge at the Army Headquarters in New Delhi on Friday.

Sources confirmed that Lt Gen RS Raman assumed the charge of DG MI on Friday along with Lt Gen Raju Baijal and Lt Gen Rajeev Puri who have joined as the new DGs Strategic Planning and Information Warfare respectively.

As reported earlier by this newspaper the Army has got a new Deputy Chief of Army Staff (Information System and Coordination) as well as three new Corps Commanders. Meanwhile, the ceremony of assumption of charge at Srinagar based XV (Chinar) Corps has been postponed.

Lt Gen Rakesh Kapoor took charge as the new DCoAS at the New Delhi-based Army Headquarters.
He was the Commander in Chief of the Jodhpur-based XII Corps. Lt Gen Mohit Malhotra, who was the Additional DG Public Information, took charge as the XII Corps Commander. The Army has three deputy chiefs.

Lt Gen Rajiv Ghai is slated to be the Corps Commander of the Srinagar based XV Corps, looking after the LoC and anti-terrorism operations. The former XV Corps Commander Lt Gen Amardeep Singh Aujala is the new MGS (Master General Sustenance) at the Army Headquarters, New Delhi. Lt Gen Gajendra Joshi who was commanding the Mathura based 1 (Strike) Corps has shifted as the new Director General Territorial Army. Lt General Sanjay Mitra took over as the new 1 Corps Commander.

NCERT mutilated textbooks, say Palshikar, Yadav

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

DESCRIBING the deletions in NCERT textbooks as "arbitrary" and "irrational," Suhas Palshikar and Yogendra Yadav, who were chief advisors for the original political science books for classes IX-XII, have written to NCERT director, saying the rationalisation exercise has "mutilated" the books and rendered them "academically dysfunctional".

They have also asked the National Council for Educational Research and Training (NCERT) to drop their names and disassociate themselves as chief advisors from all Political Science textbooks as they were never consulted or informed before the cuts were made.

"As academics originally associated with the preparation of these textbooks, we are embarrassed that our names should be mentioned as chief advisors to these mutilated and academically dysfunctional textbooks," said a letter written to NCERT Director Dinesh Saklani."While the modifications have been justified in the name of rationalisation, we fail to see any pedagogic rationale at work here. We find that the text has been mutilated beyond recognition. There are innumerable and irrational cuts and large deletions without any attempts to fill the gaps created," it said.

Palshikar, an academician and political scientist, and Yadav, political scientist and a leader of Swaraj India, were chief advisors for the Political Science books for classes 9-12 originally published in 2006-07, based on the 2005 version of the National Curriculum Framework (NCF). Their names are mentioned in a "letter to students" and the list of textbook development teams at the beginning of the book.

They further said that they were "never consulted or even informed of these changes. If NCERT did consult other experts for deciding on these cuts and deletions, we explicitly state that we fully disagree with them in this regard". "We believe that any text has an internal logic and such arbitrary cuts and deletions violate the spirit of the text. The frequent and serial deletions do not seem to have any logic except to please the powers that be," the letter dated June 8 said.

It said that the "textbooks cannot and should not be shaped in this blatantly partisan manner and should not quell the spirit of critique and questioning among students of social sciences. These textbooks as they stand now do not serve the purpose of training students of political science both the principles of politics and the broad patterns of political dynamics that have occurred over time."

The two experts said that they "wish to explicitly record our full disagreement with the entire process of reshaping the text in name of rationalisation." They requested the NCERT director to give effect to their request immediately and ensure that their names are not used in the soft copies of the textbooks available at the NCERT websites and also in the subsequent print editions.

A controversy broke out last month after it was found that NCERT has deleted several topics and portions. The NCERT director had told this paper that the changes were made as part of rationalisation so that students are not burdened due to Covid-19. However, references to Mahatma Gandhi, RSS, Gujarat riots, and Nathuram Godse were deleted but were not notified by NCERT.

The NCERT director said the omissions were a possible oversight but refused to undo the deletions, saying they were based on the recommendations of an expert committee.

It said the textbooks are anyway headed for a revision in 2024 when the National Curriculum Framework comes in. However, the NCERT later changed its stand and said "minor changes need not be notified.

New Congress chief in Gujarat, Puducherry

PREETHA NAIR
@ New Delhi

SIGNALLING an organisational reshuffle ahead of the 2024 elections, the Congress on Friday appointed Rajya Sabha MP Shaktisinh Gohil as the new Gujarat PCC president.

"The Congress president has appointed Shaktisinh Gohil as the new Gujarat PCC president and V Vaithilingam, MP, as the new Puducherry PCC president," said the party in official communication.

The appointment of Gohil as the new Gujarat PCC chief assumes significance as the grand old party put up the worst-ever performance in the last assembly elections. Gohil has replaced Jagdish Thakor, who had resigned after the party registered its lowest-ever tally in the assembly polls. Gohil was a former leader of the Opposition in Gujarat during PM Narendra Modi's tenure as chief minister of the state.

By appointing Gohil, who is considered close to Rahul Gandhi, the party is seeking to strengthen the organization in the home state of PM Modi and Home Minister Amit Shah. The Congress has remained out of power in Gujarat for over two-and-a-half decades.

The party said that Deepak Babaria will replace Gohil as the AICC in charge of Haryana and Delhi. "The Congress president has appointed Deepak Babaria as AICC in-charge of Haryana and Delhi with immediate effect," said a statement.

The appointments may be a precursor to the new Congress Working Committee (CWC), which has been pending for months. Top leaders said that the CWC will be announced after the Karnataka Assembly election. At the plenary session of the party in Raipur in February, the Steering Committee authorized party president Mallikarjun Kharge to nominate his new team instead of holding elections to Congress Working Committee.

'Shah should be mindful'

INTERESTINGLY, Shah is currently in Bengaluru where his wife is undergoing treatment.

Jaishankar had on Thursday said the map in India's Parliament was a cultural map and not a political one and friendly countries like Nepal would have no problem.

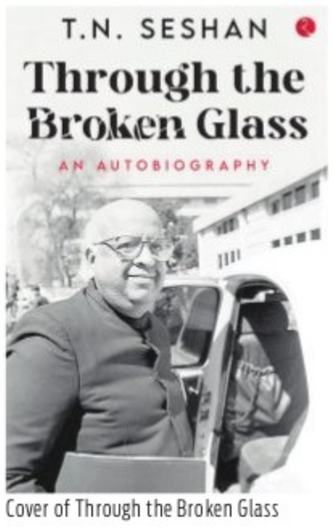
Meanwhile, in Nepal, some are questioning the constitutional validity of the mayor's decision to put up the 'Greater Nepal' map as elected leaders must only use maps that are approved.

"Shah is an elected mayor. His position is equal to that of a state minister. He should be mindful of this as this could result in tensions between India and Nepal. He should follow the Constitution," Buddhi Narayan Shrestha, a well-known cartographer in Nepal, said.

The mural in Parliament includes ancient sites Lumbini and Kapilavastu that are in Nepal. "We had raised the issue of the map in India's Parliament but were told it's a historical map and not a political one," Nepal PM Pusha Kumar Prachanda had said on Wednesday.

Kanchi seer cautioned Rajiv week before death: Seshan's memoir

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi



Cover of Through the Broken Glass

THE tragedy of former Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi's death was a personal loss, writes former Chief Election Commissioner T N Seshan in his autobiography, which was published posthumously this week. In his book "Through the Broken Glass", published by Rupa, Seshan said that a week before Gandhi was assassinated, Seshan received a message from the Kanchipuram Shankara Mutt, asking Rajiv to be careful. Gandhi was assassinated in Sriperumbudur while campaigning for Congress in the 1991 Lok Sabha elections.

"On 10 May 1991, I called on Rajiv around daybreak. There was no agenda; it was a personal chat to convey my concern, to which Rajiv replied, laughing: 'I won't die twice'. I cautioned him again, beseeching him to reconsider his decision to campaign so freely, but to no avail," he wrote..

Four days later, on 14 May, Seshan received a message from Kanchipuram Shankara Mutt, asking Rajiv to be careful.

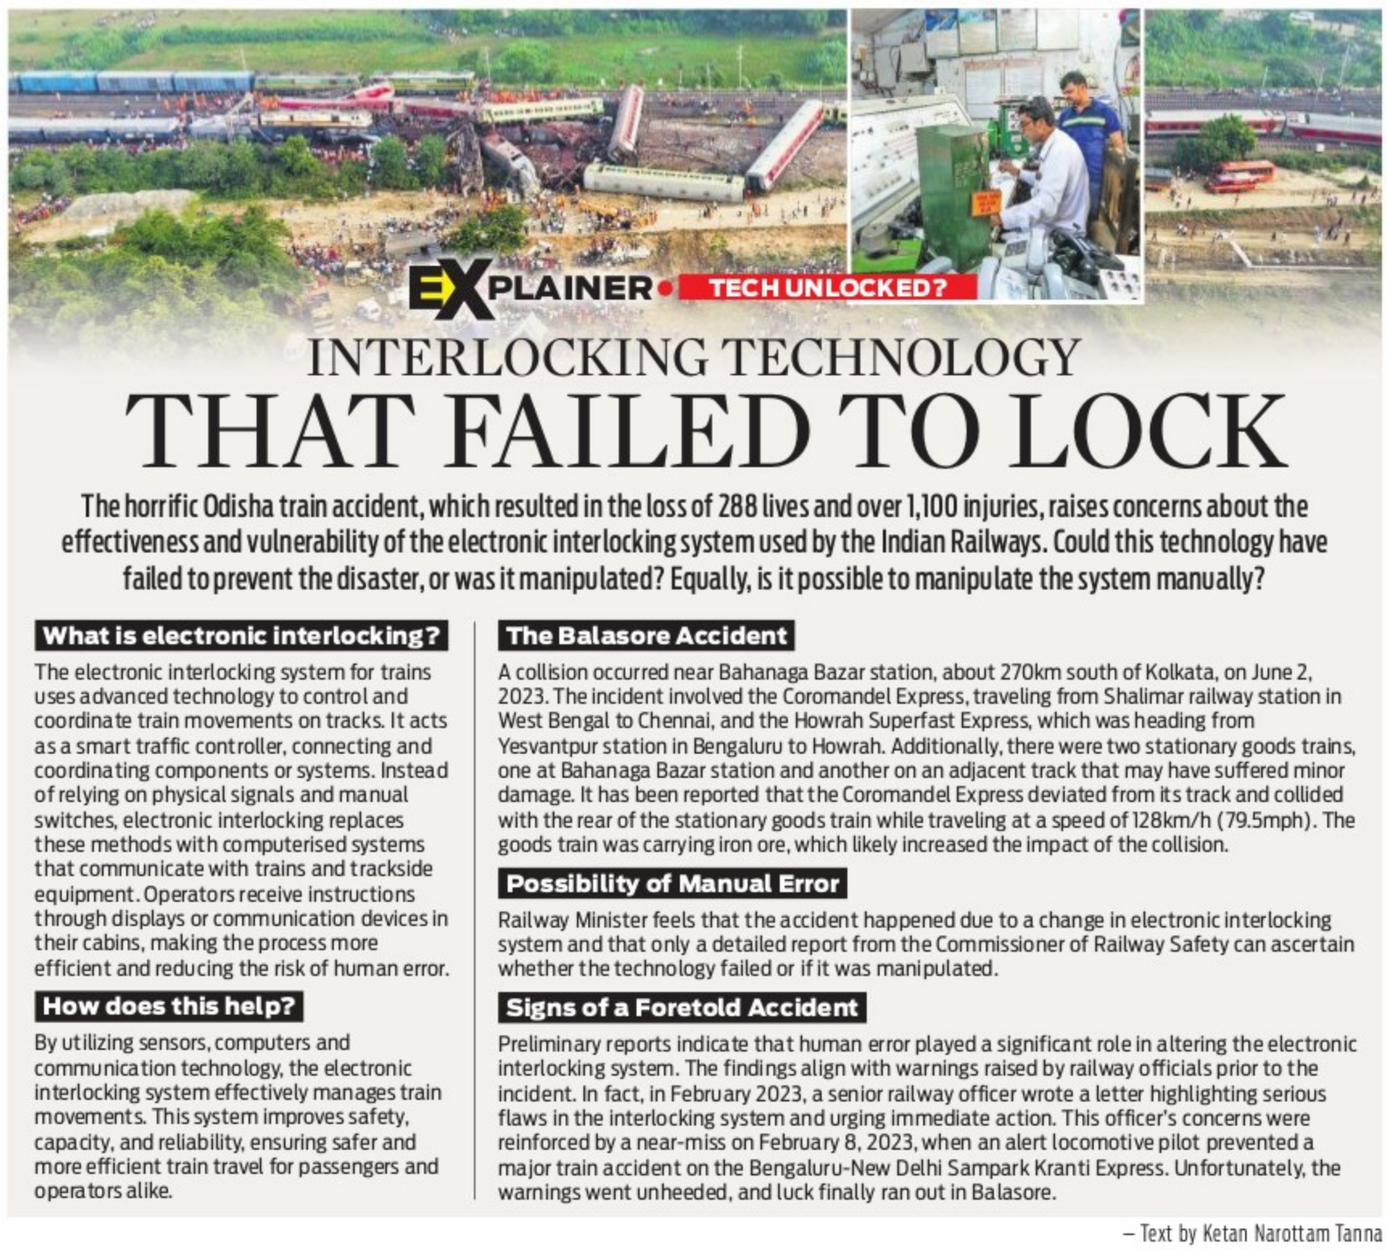
"I told the Kanchi seer that Rajiv was taking the risk lightly in spite of being cautioned by me. A fax to this effect was again sent directly to him and that reached his table on 17 May. However, before he could read it, he was killed in the bomb blast in Sriperumbudur on 21 May. I was grief-stricken again. I did not attend the cremation and spent the entire day at home," he wrote..

Seshan, who took over as CEC in 1990, writes in the book that due to his interest in horoscopes, he was eager to see what the stars foretold about Rajiv. "There were valid astrological reasons, apart from a host of other factors, to conclude well in advance that Rajiv's party was poised for victory. Ironically, that was what brought me intimations of fear," he said. Sheshan, who drafted the legislation for the SPG Act, says that he tried to convince Rajiv that the laws should protect the PM and his family, along with the former PMs and their immediate families, he declined to do so.

"One particular section of the Act said that the SPG shall provide proximate protection to the PM and his immediate family. I suggested to Rajiv that we needed to include past PMs and their families too in the Act," wrote Seshan.

Though he cited the example of the USA, where the Federal Bureau of Investigation looks after the president's family even long after his death, Rajiv did not agree.. "I argued that Rajiv and his immediate family would need protection even after he gave up the job due to election loss or any other reason. He thought that people would believe he was doing it out of pure self-interest. He said no for the former PMs; it was enough to include the present one," said Seshan, who was in -charge of the PM's security at that time.

Though Rajiv never took his personal security lightly, there were times when he overruled Seshan. "He overturned my strong opposition to his visit to Colombo to sign the Indo–Sri Lanka Accord. Despite Chidambaram backing me, Rajiv would still not listen. And despite our best efforts, Rajiv was attacked," wrote Seshan.



INTERLOCKING TECHNOLOGY
THAT FAILED TO LOCK

The horrific Odisha train accident, which resulted in the loss of 288 lives and over 1,100 injuries, raises concerns about the effectiveness and vulnerability of the electronic interlocking system used by the Indian Railways. Could this technology have failed to prevent the disaster, or was it manipulated? Equally, is it possible to manipulate the system manually?

What is electronic interlocking?

The electronic interlocking system for trains uses advanced technology to control and coordinate train movements on tracks. It acts as a smart traffic controller, connecting and coordinating components or systems. Instead of relying on physical signals and manual switches, electronic interlocking replaces these methods with computerised systems that communicate with trains and trackside equipment. Operators receive instructions through displays or communication devices in their cabins, making the process more efficient and reducing the risk of human error.

How does this help?

By utilizing sensors, computers and communication technology, the electronic interlocking system effectively manages train movements. This system improves safety, capacity, and reliability, ensuring safer and more efficient train travel for passengers and operators alike.

The Balasore Accident

A collision occurred near Bahanaga Bazar station, about 270km south of Kolkata, on June 2, 2023. The incident involved the Coromandel Express, traveling from Shalimar railway station in West Bengal to Chennai, and the Howrah Superfast Express, which was heading from Yesvantpur station in Bengaluru to Howrah. Additionally, there were two stationary goods trains, one at Bahanaga Bazar station and another on an adjacent track that may have suffered minor damage. It has been reported that the Coromandel Express deviated from its track and collided with the rear of the stationary goods train while traveling at a speed of 128km/h (79.5mph). The goods train was carrying iron ore, which likely increased the impact of the collision.

Possibility of Manual Error

Railway Minister feels that the accident happened due to a change in electronic interlocking system and that only a detailed report from the Commissioner of Railway Safety can ascertain whether the technology failed or if it was manipulated.

Signs of a Foretold Accident

Preliminary reports indicate that human error played a significant role in altering the electronic interlocking system. The findings align with warnings raised by railway officials prior to the incident. In fact, in February 2023, a senior railway officer wrote a letter highlighting serious flaws in the interlocking system and urging immediate action. This officer's concerns were reinforced by a near-miss on February 8, 2023, when an alert locomotive pilot prevented a major train accident on the Bengaluru-New Delhi Sampark Kranti Express. Unfortunately, the warnings went unheeded, and luck finally ran out in Balasore.

NUKE WEAPONS IN BELARUS BY NEXT MONTH: PUTIN

Russian president during a meeting says work on building facilities for the nuclear arms will be completed by July 7-8

MOSCOW

RUSSIAN President Vladimir Putin said on Friday that Moscow will deploy some of its tactical nuclear weapons to Belarus next month, a move that the Belarusian opposition described as an attempt to blackmail the West.

Putin said during a meeting with Belarusian President Alexander Lukashenko that work on building facilities for the nuclear weapons will be completed by July 7-8, and they will be moved to the territory of Russia's neighbour and ally quickly after that. Russia used Belarus' territory to send its troops into Ukraine on February 24, 2022, and has kept forces and weapons on the territory of its ally.

"Everything is proceeding as planned," Putin said in televised remarks as he hosted Lukashenko at his residence in the Black Sea resort of Sochi. "On July 7-8, the preparations of the relevant facilities will be completed and we will immediately start the activities linked to the deployment of those weapons on your territory."

Tactical nuclear weapons are intended to destroy enemy troops and weapons on the battlefield. They have a relatively short range and a much lower yield than nuclear warheads fitted to long-range strategic missiles that are capable of obliterating whole cities. Exiled Belarusian opposition leader Sviatlana Tsikhanouskaya strongly condemned the move.

"Putin and his puppet Lukashenko are planning to deploy nuclear weapons in Belarus immediately before NATO's summit in Vilnius in July," Tsikhanouskaya told AP. "This is a rude blackmail, an attempt to force Europe to back down, but we can't allow dictators to dodge punishment for the nuclear blackmail.

Meanwhile, Putin also said on Friday that a long-expected counter-offensive from Ukraine had begun but Kyiv had so far "failed" to reach its goals. "We can definitely state that this Ukrainian offensive has begun," Putin said in a video interview published on Telegram by a Russian journalist. "But the Ukrainian troops did not reach their aims in any area of combat," he added.

Putin said that "combat has continued for five days, with intense fighting yesterday and the day before." He said Ukrainian forces had suffered "significant losses" but "the offensive potential of the Kyiv regime still remains." Agencies

'EXPLOSION DETECTED WHEN UKRAINIAN DAM COLLAPSED'

OSLO

NORWAY'S seismological institute said on Friday it had detected "an explosion" at the site and time a dam was breached in Ukraine.

Norsar's announcement, which did not provide any information about the cause of the blast, supports suggestions that the hydroelectric dam, located in a Russian-held zone, did not burst as a result of damage incurred during months of heavy bombing.

"We are confident that there was an explosion," Ben Dando, a senior Norsar official, said.

As per the institute, the blast occurred at 2.54 am local time, at a site whose coordinates correspond to the Kakhovka dam.

The magnitude of the blast was "between 1 and 2," said Norsar, which had yet to calculate its equivalent in tonnes of TNT. "It's not a weak explosion," Dando said.

It was detected at the Bukovina station in Romania, some 620 kilometres from the location of the blast.

The breach has flooded towns and villages along the banks of the Dnipro river, including neighbourhoods of the regional capital Kherson, forcing thousands of people to evacuate their homes.

Meanwhile, the US on Friday announced a $2.1 billion military aid package for Ukraine. The package included missiles for Patriot air defence systems, artillery rounds, drones and laser-guided rocket system munitions. AFP

Health of kids hurt in knife attack improving: Macron

ANNECY

FRENCH President Emmanuel Macron on Friday said the health of the preschool children badly wounded in a mass knife attack by a Syrian refugee was "heading in the right direction," as police questioned the attacker.

Four children—aged between 22 months and three years old—were stabbed on Thursday in a playground in the Alpine town of Annecy, a normally idyllic lakeside spot popular with tourists. Macron and his wife Brigitte arrived in the southeastern city of Grenoble, where three of the children are being treated, and are to visit those who have "contributed in helping and supporting them," the presidency said.

"Everything that I was told is heading in the right direction," he said in Annecy after visiting the wounded toddlers in hospital, adding that news on their condition was positive.

The fourth child, a Dutch citizen, is in a Swiss hospital over the border in Geneva. She is "out of danger," the Netherlands' Foreign Minister Wopke Hoekstra said.

One of the victims is British and the others French.

Henri (R) meets French President Emmanuel Macron in Annecy on Friday. The 24-year-old man in France is being hailed as a hero after he intervened in a savage knife attack on very young children on Thursday | AP

While France was in shock over the blood-curdling attack, there was a deluge of praise on social media for rescue workers and a man hailed as a hero for chasing the attacker out of the area.

Macron met a man named Henri, 24, who is being hailed as a hero for chasing the attacker from the playground.

"You experienced very hard moments, traumatising," Macron said. "I am very proud of you."

The attacker slashed at Henri with the knife that he used to savagely stab one young child after another. But rather than run, Henri held his ground — using a weighty backpack he was carrying to swing at the assailant and fend off his blade.

French media hailed Henri as "the hero with a backpack" after he was shown in a video grappling with the assailant and charging after him during the knife attack.

Henri's father, François, said he believed that his son's dogged pursuit helped dissuade the attacker from stabbing more victims before police wrestled him to the ground. "He took a lot of risks—when he wasn't armed, with just his backpacks," his father said.

BLINKEN'S VISIT

US Secretary of State plans to travel to China next week

WASHINGTON

SECRETARY of State Antony Blinken is planning to travel to China next week as the Biden administration pushes to improve ties that hit a new low in February after a Chinese surveillance balloon was shot down over US airspace.

US officials say Blinken expects to be in Beijing on June 18 for meetings with senior Chinese officials, including with Foreign Minister Qin Gang and possibly President Xi Jinping.

The officials spoke on condition of anonymity because neither the State Department nor the Chinese foreign ministry has yet confirmed the trip.

The visit, which was agreed between Xi and President Joe Biden last year at a meeting in Bali, had been initially planned for February but was postponed after the spy balloon incident. Beijing insists the craft was a weather balloon that strayed off course.

Since then, there have been contacts between the US and China, but they have been rare as tensions have risen over China's conduct in the South China Sea, aggressive actions toward Taiwan and support for Russia's war against Ukraine.

Last week, China's defence minister rebuffed a request from US Defence Secretary Lloyd Austin for a meeting on the sidelines of a security symposium in Singapore.

However, shortly after postponing his trip to Beijing, Blinken met briefly with China's top diplomat, Wang Yi, at the Munich Security Conference in Germany. AP

REMARKS ON RELATIONS

South Korea summons China's envoy over senseless comments

Struggle in striking a balance between US, China

Seoul: South Korea's Foreign Ministry said Xing's "irresponsible" comments countered "the desire of both countries' governments and people to value and further advance South Korea-China relations based on mutual respect." South Korea has struggled to strike a balance between the United States, its decades-long military ally, and China

SEOUL

SOUTH Korea's Foreign Ministry summoned China's ambassador on Friday to protest comments he made accusing Seoul of tilting toward the US and away from China.

South Korean First Vice Foreign Minister Chang Ho-jin warned Chinese Ambassador Xing Haiming over his "senseless and provocative" remarks made during a meeting with a South Korean opposition leader. The ministry accused Xing of violating diplomatic protocols and interfering with South Korean domestic politics but didn't specify the parts of Xing's comments it saw as inappropriate. The ministry also didn't share what Xing said in reply to Chang.

In a meeting on Thursday with South Korean Democratic Party leader Lee Jae-myung, a key rival of conservative President Yoon Suk Yeol, Xing accused Yoon's government of leaning excessively toward Seoul's treaty ally, the United States, and damaging its relations with China, its biggest trading partner. Xing said South Korea was entirely to blame for the "many difficulties" in bilateral relations, citing its growing trade deficit with China which he attributed to "de-Chinaization" efforts, apparently referring to actions by South Korean companies to shift their supply chains away from China. He demanded that Seoul respect Beijing's core interests including Taiwan and other major regional issues.

"With the United States pressuring China with all its might, some are betting that the United States will win and China will lose. But this is clearly the wrong judgment," Xing said, describing a rosy future for his country under authoritarian leader Xi Jingping. "What can be said with certainty is that those who bet on China's defeat will surely regret it later," Xing said. AP

Mediators announce 24-hour Sudan truce

Khartoum: Sudan's warring generals have agreed to a 24-hour ceasefire from Saturday, US and Saudi mediators said. "Representatives of the Sudanese Armed Forces and the Rapid Support Forces (RSF) agreed to a 24-hour countrywide ceasefire beginning on June 10 at 6.00 am (0400 GMT)," said a joint statement from the mediators released by the Saudi foreign ministry on Friday. The fighting has gripped Khartoum and the western region of Darfur, killing upwards of 1,800 people, according to the Armed Conflict Location and Event Data Project.

CHINA SLAMS US OVER SPY BASE IN CUBA

China warned the U.S. against "interfering in Cuba's internal affairs," in response to reports that Beijing was planning to set up a spy base on the island just off American shores. The media reports, based on comments by anonymous US officials to The Wall Street Journal and CNN, were dismissed by Cuba's deputy foreign minister as "mendacious and unfounded," while the White House called them inaccurate. When asked about the alleged spying base at a regular press briefing, Chinese foreign ministry spokesperson Wang Wenbin said he was "unaware of the situation" before criticising US policy on Cuba. "As we all know, spreading rumours and slander is a common tactic of the U.S., and wantonly interfering in the internal affairs of other countries is its patent," said Wang. "The U.S. should reflect on itself and stop interfering in Cuba's internal affairs under the banner of freedom and democracy, and immediately cancel the economic, commercial and financial embargo against Cuba." Vedanta-Foxconn plans to apply for 40 nanometer fab

RAKESH KUMAR @ New Delhi

A joint venture of Vedanta Foxconn Semiconductors Ltd is planning to apply for a 40-nanometer fabrication (fab) unit in the country, Rajeev Chandrasekhar, the Minister of State for Electronics and Information Technology, said on Friday.

The minister, speaking on the sidelines of a press briefing following a presentation on India's progress in digitisation over the past nine years, added that the government will evaluate their application whenever it is submitted. Billionaire Anil Agarwal-led joint venture Vedanta-Foxconn has applied for a 28-nanometer semiconductor fabrication (fab) under the PLI scheme. However, the government is yet to consider their application.

"They have applied for a 28 nanometre fab, and I understand that they are also planning to apply for a 40 nanometre fab. Once that application is submitted, it will be processed accordingly," said the minister.

To establish India as a semiconductor hub, the government announced the ₹76,000 crore PLI scheme in December 2021. The first window for 28-nanometer fabrication plants remained open for 45 days in January 2022. It received four applications, including one from Vedanta-Foxconn. The government is evaluating them. Subsequently, starting from June 1, 2023, the government reopened the application process for the scheme to attract major players in the industry. "We are becoming a semiconductor nation, which is not a small task. It is a complex area. But in many areas of semiconductors, we are making rapid progress," said the minister.

He said the entire GPS system will be powered by an Indian-designed Navic chip, developed in partnership with the government and private sector start-ups. "In packaging, there will soon be some proposals that are critical to the technology space," he added. On Artificial Intelligence (AI) replacing jobs, he said AI is disruptive but it can't replace jobs as it is not that sophisticated at this stage.

IT Min asks Kerala reason for Chinese cable import

NEW DELHI: Minister of State for Electronics and Information Technology Rajeev Chandrasekhar on Friday asked Kerala government the "reason or pressure" for using the Chinese-origin optical fibre in Kerala Fibre Optic Network (KFON) project. The minister, addressing a press briefing after a presentation on how far India has travelled in terms of digitisation in the last nine years, said India has many optical fibre plants but wondered why Kerala needed to import from China. "They didn't require importing from China, and this (optical fibre) is a domestically available product. Why did they need to import from China. What was pressure? What was the reason?" he said. ENS

National cooperatives policy likely by July

Proposes National Cooperative Bank of India, dispute resolution tribunal, and National Board of Cooperatives

DIPAK MONDAL @ New Delhi

THE much-awaited National Cooperation Policy is likely to be announced next month.

Sources in the government told this newspaper that consultations including the one with the home ministry have been concluded, and the policy might be announced on July 1, 2023, which is International Day of Cooperatives.

As per government sources, the National Cooperation Policy is said to have proposed a ranking framework for states for development of cooperatives and setting up of the National Board for Cooperatives along the lines of National Board for MSMEs. The policy could also envisage a National Cooperative Tribunal along the lines of National Company Law Tribunal (NCLT) to resolve disputes and reconstruct sick cooperatives.

It has proposed setting up of National Cooperative Bank of India to deploy funds to Primary Agricultural Credit Societies (PACS), which are village-level cooperative credit societies dealing directly with farmers.

Home Minister Amit Shah, also the minister of cooperation, in September 2022 announced setting up of the national-level panel for drafting of the national cooperation policy document.

According to a government official, sustainable socio-economic development, eventual poverty and inequality elimination could be achieved by deploying cooperative style in undertaking economic activities, and the committee tasked with National Cooperation Policy has considered the same in drafting the fine print of the policy. The policy is said to have proposed establishing Centres of Excellence in all the districts while at the same time improving professionalism in the Board of Directors and Management through training and other methods. "The aim of the policy is to achieve some level of 'corporatisation' to make them commercially more viable over the long run," said the government official quoted earlier.

India has around 8.5 lakh cooperative societies with a member base of around 29 crore, spread across the country. These co-operatives are engaged in varied activities like agro-processing, dairying, fisheries, housing, weaving, credit, marketing, to name a few. The new National Cooperation Policy will replace the existing National Policy on Cooperatives, which was formulated in 2002.

CHINA

ECONOMIC GROWTH LIKELY TO BE 'RELATIVELY HIGH' IN Q2: PBOC

The economic growth of China is expected to be "relatively high" in the second quarter compared to the prior year, mainly because of low base of comparison, the country's central bank governor said on Friday. Consumer inflation is projected to be above 1% by December, it said. China's core CPI has been soft and factory gate prices fell sharply in May due to rising interest rates and inflation squeeze demand in the US and Europe. This suggests the world's second-largest economy is losing steam. The economy of the country is still recovering from the impact of COVID-19. The balance sheets of companies are also being repaired as the country reopens after a series of lockdowns in the past couple of years, People's Bank of China (PBOC) said.

PHILIPPINES

INTER-AGENCY COMMITTEE KEEPS 2023 GDP GROWTH TARGET AT 6%-7%

The inter-agency panel formed by the Philippine government on Friday maintained its growth target for 2023 gross domestic product (GDP) at 6% to 7%. It took into account both domestic and external risks. The panel, which includes the central bank, departments of finance and budget and the economic planning agency, kept the country's GDP growth target for the 2024 to 2028 period at 6.5% to 8.0%. According to Zawya news portal, the panel decided to revise the 2023 inflation assumption to a narrower range of 5.0% to 6.0% as compared to the previous assumption of 5.0% to 7.0%. Rhe inflation assumption has been kept at 2.0% to 4.0% for 2024 to 2028.

ASIA

SHARES MOSTLY RISE ON WALL STREET REBOUND

Asian stock markets mostly gained on Friday on optimism from a new bull market on Wall Street. Japan's benchmark Nikkei 225 surged 1.97% to 32,265.17 while Australia's S&P/ASX 200 jumped 0.38% to 7,122.50. South Korea's Kospi added 1.16% to 2,641.16 and Hong Kong's Hang Seng advanced 0.47% to 19,389.95. The Shanghai Composite rose 0.55% to 3,231.41. On Wall Street, the S&P 500 jumped 0.6% on Thursday to carry it 20% above the bottom it hit in October. The Dow rose 0.5% to 33,833.61 and the Nasdaq jumped 1% to 13,238.52.Wall Street's main measure of health has climbed out of a painful bear market, which saw it drop 25.4% in nearly nine months.

More trouble for Byju's as lenders say lawsuit is 'meritless'

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Bengaluru

THE group of ad-hoc term lenders say Byju's lawsuit against them is simply an effort to avoid complying with its obligations, including making contractually required payments.

They collectively own over 85% of Byju's $1.1 billion term loan. Edtech firm Byju's had filed a complaint in the New York Supreme Court to challenge the acceleration of the $ 1.2 billion TLB (Term Loan B) and also sought to disqualify Redwood, an investment management firm.

The edtech firm has elected not to make any further payments on a $1.2 billion TLB, including any interest until the dispute with lenders is decided by the court. The company skipped $40 million interest on the loan.

All these issues are expected to affect Byju's future plans, as the edtech company will launch the initial public offering (IPO) of its subsidiary Aakash in mid-2024.

"The lender group, comprised of 21 highly respected global institutional investors, has sought to work constructively with the company over the past nine months to cure its numerous defaults and will continue to do so in good faith. However, in the event BYJU'S intentionally remains in default, the lender group reserves all rights available to it to enforce the credit agreement," lenders said in a statement.

Byju's had alleged that a series of predatory tactics were conducted by the lenders, led by Redwood, and that in March this year, the TLB lenders "unlawfully" accelerated the TLB on account of certain alleged non-monetary and technical defaults.

The edtech company is planning to cut 1,000 employees, according to reports, but people familiar with the development denied this.

Last year, the company announced that it will retrench 2,500 people in a phased manner.

Earlier, during its US entity Byju's Alpha issue, the company had said that it entered into the Term Loan B agreement with the clear intention of utilising the raised funds to drive growth and expansion in its global operations and is free to transfer and use the funds as necessary.

SIPs

May inflows in equity MF fall 50% to ₹3,240 crore

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Mumbai

INFLOWS in equity mutual funds plunged to a five-month low of ₹3,240 crore in May compared to ₹6,480 crore in April 2023 as investors decided to book profit amid a rising stock market.

However, the investments through Systematic Investment Plans (SIPs) remained firm and breached Rs14,000 crore mark last month. SIP inflows touched an all-time high of ₹14,749 crore last month compared to ₹13,728 crore in April 2023, as per data released by the Association of Mutual Funds in India (AMFI). The number of SIP accounts increase to 6.52 crore in May compared to 6.42 crore in April this year.

"More working days in May and the preference of retail investors to utilise mutual funds to invest in equity markets propelled SIPs to record highs. The rotation of money into small-caps that are expected to rise after a steep correction and profit booking with index nearing record levels triggered moderation in large-caps, midcaps and multicaps," NS Venkates, CEO, AMFI said addressing a press conference.

"Investors are choosing to invest in categories where they find value. The figures indicate that retail investors have maintained their confidence in SIP as their preferred investment instrument for wealth creation. Overall mutual funds have shown an uptick even in the midst of volatile markets," he added. The Asset Under Management (AUM) of the industry rose to ₹43.2 lakh crore as of May-end from ₹41.62 lakh crore at the end of April.

The mutual fund industry, including debt, equity, hybrid and other schemes, saw net inflows ₹57,420 crore in May. Within equities, the highest outflows ₹1,362 crore were seen in the large-cap category, followed by the focused category (₹944 crore) and ELSS category (₹504 crore). However, investors continued to repose faith in small-cap funds with a 50 % jump in net flows to ₹3,282 crore.

'Default loss guarantee a boost for lenders'

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Mumbai

THE guidelines released by the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) on Default Loss Guarantee will protect the banks from defaults and increase responsible lending in the fintech sector.

Industry stakeholders believe the guidelines will enhance accountability, encourage responsible innovation and ensure fair practices and customer protection.

"RBI's decision to permit First Loss Default Guarantee arrangements in digital lending is a big positive for the fintech industry. This would foster a secure and sustainable lending ecosystem. The guarantee assures borrowers of support in case of defaults, expanding credit access for MSMEs, stimulating economic growth," said Shachindra Nath, vice Chairman and MD of U GRO Capital. "For lenders, it provides a risk management framework and promotes responsible lending practices." As per the guidelines, the default cover could be provided for up to 5% of the loan portfolio by fintechs and the banks shall invoke this DLG within a maximum overdue period of 120 days. Earlier, entities were offering nearly 100% LDG to banking partners.

Lenders have to publish portfolio details

As per the guidelines, the lender must ensure that lending service providers publish the total number of portfolios and the respective amount of each portfolio on which the guarantee arrangement has been offered on their website

"The RBI has wisely set a cap of five percent of the loan portfolio, ensuring that lenders exercise prudence while mitigating risk. The RBI's directive to invoke DLG within a maximum overdue period of 120 days, unless resolved by the borrower, demonstrates a commitment to timely resolution of defaults," said Joginder Rana, Vice-Chairman & Managing Director, CASHe. "This will not only protect lenders from prolonged defaults but also encourage borrowers to take prompt corrective actions, ultimately fostering a healthier lending environment," he added.

As per the guidelines, the lender must ensure that lending service providers publish the total number of portfolios and the respective amount of each portfolio on which the guarantee arrangement has been offered on their website.

"The guidelines on DLG cover will help improve overall due diligence mechanism in India's flourishing fintech ecosystem. With a 5 percent DLG cap on any outstanding portfolio, lenders will be censured to exploit the borrowers through unscrupulous activities and thrust them into the debt trap," Mahesh Shukla, CEO & Founder, PayMe told this newspaper.

FAQ soon on TCS on overseas card spends

MONIKA YADAV @ New Delhi

THE government will come up with clarifications related to the 20% tax collected at source (TCS) imposed on use of credit cards for overseas transactions, Raman Chopra, joint secretary, department of revenue, ministry of finance, said on Friday.

"Change was brought about in February budget, TCS legislation will kick in from July 1. There has been a lot of discussion on this. Everybody is aware of the issue. We will come up with FAQs as to on what, how and in which manner TCS will be collected," Chopra said at the confederation of Indian industries (CII) event.

Centre is facing criticism for levying 20% tax on overseas credit card payments. Amid kerfuffle, it gave some respite to small taxpayers by excluding payments using their international debit or credit cards up to ₹7 lakh per annum from the liberalised remittance scheme or LRS limits. "Concerns have been raised about applicability of TCS on small transactions under LRS limits from July 1. To avoid procedural ambiguity, it has been decided any payments by an individual using international debit or credit cards up to ₹7 lakh per financial year will be excluded from LRS limits and hence, will not attract TCS," Finance ministry had said.

"The necessary changes to the Rules (Foreign Exchange Management (Current Account Transactions Rules), 2000) will be issued separately," it had stated. The RBI had introduced a new provision to bring overseas credit card spends under LRS scheme, as per which the individuals can do remittances of up to $2.5 lakh per annum. Following this, finance ministry issued a notification saying such payments would attract 20% TCS that can be adjusted against advance tax payments or refunded at the time of return filing.

SBI to raise ₹50,000 crore through debt in FY24

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Mumbai

COUNTRY'S largest lender State Bank of India (SBI) on Friday said it would raise up to ₹50,000 crore through debt instruments from Indian as well as overseas markets in the current fiscal.

The decision in this regard was taken by the central board of the bank, the lender said in a stock exchange filing.

SBI board has accorded approval for raising funds in Indian rupee or any other convertible currency by issue of debt instruments including, "but not limited to Long Term Bonds, Basel III compliant Additional Tier 1 Bonds, Basel III compliant Tier 2 Bonds, up to an amount of ₹50,000 crore through private placement mode to Indian and/or overseas investors during FY24," said the bank in a filing to the BSE.

SBI's March quarter net profit zoomed nearly 90% to ₹18,094 crore on a consolidated level, helped by a robust performance on the core income front and an improvement in asset quality to the decadal best.

Go First lenders appoint new RP

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE lenders of grounded carrier Go First on Friday discussed its revival plan and appointed Shailendra Ajmera, of consultancy firm EY, as the new resolution professional (RP).

Earlier the NCLT had named Abhilash Lal of Alvarez & Marsal as interim RP. There were reports that the creditors were looking for a new resolution professional from any of the big 4 consultancy firms as Lal was selected by the Go First management.

Go First, owned by the Wadia Group, had declared insolvency on May 2 owing to a severe cash crunch caused by the grounding of over half of its fleet. Its application was admitted by the National Company Law Tribunal (NCLT) on May 10.

"We are in advance stage of resuming operations as banks have shown confidence in supporting up financially to meet the operating expenses. We are also in touch with aviation regulator DGCA and ministry of civil aviation to restart operations," said a senior executive of the airline. The airline is aiming to restart operations within this month and has submits its relaunch plan with the DGCA. As per the submitted relaunch plan, which needs approval of the regulator and committee of creditors, the grounded carrier will restart flying with 26 aircraft and will operate over 150 daily flights.

Prior to grounding on May 3, it was operating about 200 flights daily. The resumption plan, however, faces threat from aircraft lessors, who are knocking various venues, including courts, seeking deregistration of aircraft leased by Go First. Go First on Friday extended its flight ban till June 14 due to operational reasons, It apologised for the inconvenience caused and said that a full refund would be issued to people whose flights stand to be cancelled.

ED notice to Xiaomi officials, 3 banks

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE Enforcement Directorate issued a showcause notice to Chinese mobile maker Xiaomi in India in an alleged FEMA violation involving ₹5,551 crore.

"The Adjudicating Authority has issued SCN to Xiaomi Technology India Private Limited, its officials and three banks under FEMA on the basis of a complaint filed by the ED with respect to illegal remittances made by the company to the tune of ₹5,551.27 crore," said ED in a statement.

The agency issued notices to its chief financial officer and director Sameer B Rao and former MD Manu Kumar Jain. As per ED, the showcasue notice issue to three banks -- include Citibank, HSBC Bank and Deutsche Bank AG -- are for contravention of sections 10(4) and 10(5) of the FEMA and directions issued by the RBI as they allowed foreign outward remittances in the name of royalty via the banks, "without" due diligence and "without" obtaining any underlying technical collaboration agreement from the company.

India two good for Mongolia in Intercontinental Cup

A dominant India struck two quick first-half goals to beat Mongolia 2-0 and begin their Intercontinental Cup campaign on a winning note here on Friday. Sahal Abdul Samad and Lallianzuala Chhangte scored in the second and 14th minute, respectively, as the 101st ranked Indians emerged victorious over their opponents placed 183rd in the world.

Rahane, Thakur arrest slide but Australia take sizeable lead on Day 3 at The Oval

India fight, Aussies in front

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN
EXPRESS @ WTC FINAL
LONDON

Ajinkya Rahane (L) and Shardul Thakur put on a seventh wicket partnership of 109 runs to help India avoid follow on | AP

WHEN the umpires signalled lunch on Day Three, a frustrated Pat Cummins kicked the ball towards the cordon on his follow through. His act was met by cheers from the near capacity Oval crowd. The reaction was in stark contrast to the quietness of the crowd after two balls into the opening session. KS Bharat lost the top of his off stump — the third batter to have met a similar fate then — and a quick ending was in sight.

At lunch, though, the Stadium was in a vibrant, joyous mood. The tricolour was fluttering in the stands and people were dancing to the sound of dhols next to the myriad Indian stalls outside the Stadium. One could say they had earned that break as much as Ajinkya Rahane and Shardul Thakur, the two men who breathed new life into an innings that was quickly heading towards life support territory. Once the two batters survived the initial stages, the crowd started living through the stand. The ooohhhhhs and aahhhhs were more pronounced. There were generous claps for defensive pushes and fours were boisterously celebrated.

On an increasingly difficult pitch, Thakur and Rahane hadn't just survived; they had found a way to change the momentum of the innings. It's easy to paint the innings both of them played through the Mumbai khadoos (stubborn) but it also wouldn't be out of place. They got hit multiple occasions but they were at least displaying the resolve of a resistance band. Some of it was down to Australia's slapstick — another leg-before of a no-ball just before lunch (this is what prompted Cummins' reaction) as well as three dropped chances — but this was a partnership borne out of bloody-mindedness and some words of encouragement. For example, after Thakur had flashed and missed at a wide ball, Rahane went down the wicket to have a few words, reminding him about the job at hand. The first real sign that the alliance was growing was when Rahane, no stranger to knocks like these under adversity, pounced on a nothing Cummins ball to pull him behind square for six. On the comeback trail after 18 months, Rahane needed this innings as much as the team. If the six was the entree, three delightful shots off Nathan Lyon through the off-side served as desserts. The off-spinner was given the ball for the first time in the day and Rahane didn't waste any time in capitalising on some lose deliveries.

In the commentary box, Ricky Ponting, here as an ambassador for the WTC final, couldn't help but wonder why he hasn't been a permanent fixture. "He played beautifully," Ponting told the media in an interaction before tea. "I said at the lunch break 'when you can play like that, you wonder why how he hasn't been picked in the team...' he has always been a classy looking player, a player that has a good defence. We know his record suggests that he plays at his best when his team needs him the most. He has a few more Tests against the West Indies to make the selectors answer some questions. If he makes runs in those games, with (Shreyas) Iyer and KL (Rahul) coming back..."

What did Rahane do differently? The one visible adjustment he had made was playing close to the body. As a result, the impact point was closer than other Indian batters. "His average impact point so far is 1.49m whereas the rest of the Indian batters are averaging 2.04m," according to Cricviz, a sports data company. When he got out, a terrific hold from Cameron Green at gully, he had made an uncharacteristic error with respect to the innings of playing away from the body.

Meanwhile, Thakur also made a slight adjustment. While his 51 was his third half-century at this ground, it was more patient, more measured than the two that had come against England in 2021. By the time he was done, some of the drives evoked memories of Thakur's earliest nickname in international cricket (Shardulkar). Such was the correctness of some of the drives along the ground. Ultimately, though, his instincts took over as he was running out of partners. After he was dismissed, the innings soon ground to a halt.

At close, Australia had reached 123/4 to lead by 296.

Pitch was under-prepared: Thakur post brave show

Shardul Thakur has suggested that the pitch was 'under-prepared'. "It was under-prepared. I felt going in and like we say yesterday (Thursday) and today (Friday), it was a bit up and down," he said during the post-day press conference.

Is the IPL to be blamed for lack of preparation? It's complicated

ICC WORLD TEST CHAMPIONSHIP FINAL 2023

JUST before play on Friday, Shardul Thakur and Ricky Ponting caught up for a brief amount of time. During the conversation, Thakur, who had a prior working relationship with the Australian (he played under him at Delhi Capitals), had admitted to feeling the pinch with respect to bowling a lot of overs. "I had a chat with Shardul and he said he's started to feel the pinch," Ponting told the media just before tea on the third day. Thakur was feeling the pinch because he had bowled 23 overs over one-and-a-half days worth of cricket. At the Indian Premier League, he had bowled 21 overs over almost two months.

The former Australian captain, who was answering questions in his role as an Ambassador for the WTC Final, was of the opinion that India or, for that matter, Australia, came into the final without ideal preparation. "Their preparation probably wasn't ideal coming into a one-off Test with all their players being at the IPL. Few of the Australian boys were there. Few of the Australian boys hadn't done anything for three months either... what was the best preparation coming into a game like this? Was it playing pretty high quality competitive cricket in the IPL or was it better off being at home, resting up and doing a bit of non-competitive training?

"So far both teams have been a bit rusty. (Pat) Cummins getting wickets off no-balls means his rhythm isn't where he wants it to be. One-off game and in the time of the year, there's never going to be ideal preparation time for anybody. But you have to do the best you can to be ready and execute it on the day. I mean, Travis Head is the perfect example of this, (he) hasn't picked up a bat for a few months."

Sure, the short turnaround time between the IPL and a final such as this means there will always be some corners cut when it comes to preparation time. You would much rather want players playing the WTC final to not play competitive games, maintain a good sleep cycle, travel out a good 10 days in advance and work towards the final. But the IPL schedule means as long as the WTC final stays in the UK (the next edition will also be in London with Lord's slated to host it in 2025), teams must adapt.

Ricky Ponting

Ponting, Capitals' coach the last few years, hinted at the same thing. He used the examples of Virat Kohli and Ajinkya Rahane to drive home this point when replying to a question on whether India's batters were impacted by the IPL. "If you ask Virat, he would say it's been perfect for him because he has got all sorts of runs. If you asked Rahane, he wouldn't have been picked for this match without the IPL, so it's going to work both ways."

That's the thing about playing in a shootout. There are no second chances and seemingly no right or wrong way to prepare for it. Take Cheteshwar Pujara for instance. The batter was plying his trade in the County circuit and made big runs. Going by conventional wisdom, if anybody was equipped to see out the new ball and bat time, it was going to be him. Yet, a misjudgment put paid to his stay. Then, there's the curious case of Rahane at the other end of the spectrum. He featured in the Ranji Trophy before remodelling himself as a six-hitter in the IPL. On Friday, he played one of his typical fighting Test innings.

So, what's the best way to prepare? While playing in a highly competitive environment before a big final is never the answer (there's a reason why most leading tennis players, as an example, avoid playing in the week before a Major), 'it's up to each individual', as Ponting said.

CL FINAL: CITY LOOK TO MAKE HISTORY

Manchester City aim to break their Champions League duck and complete a historic treble when they meet Inter Milan in the final in Istanbul on Saturday...

NOTHING TO LOSE FOR INTER MILAN

Inter know what they are up against too, not least veteran 37-year-old forward Edin Dzeko, a former City player. He has scored 14 goals this season and has been an excellent foil for Lautaro Martinez. Inter have maybe not faced a team of City's calibre, but they have a clear Cup pedigree, having recently retained the Coppa Italia.

CITY

Form (all comp, most recent first): WLDWWW

Where they finished: Premier League champions, FA Cup winners

INTER

Form (all competitions, most recent first): WWWLWW

Where they finished: 3rd in Serie A, Coppa Italia winners

MAN CITY START FAVOURITES

Pep Guardiola's side have not lost in Europe this season and dished out heavy beatings to RB Leipzig, Bayern Munich and Real Madrid in the knockout rounds. The addition of Erling Haaland, who has scored 52 goals since arriving from Borussia Dortmund, appears to have taken Guardiola's team to a new level. He'll be determined to add to that tally and make a name etch his name in history books.

Djokovic gets closer to 23rd Slam title

AFP @ Paris

NOVAK Djokovic defeated an ailing Carlos Alcaraz 6-2, 5-7, 6-1, 6-1 on Friday to become the second oldest men's finalist in French Open history and close in on a record 23rd Grand Slam title. Djokovic, a two-time Roland Garros champion, will break the record he shares with Rafael Nadal for the most men's Grand Slam titles if he beats Casper Ruud or Alexander Zverev in Sunday's final.

The 36-year-old Serb can also eclipse Nadal as the tournament's oldest winner and regain the number one ranking from Alcaraz, who was severely limited by cramp in the last two sets. "First and foremost I have to say tough luck for Carlos, because at this level the last thing you want is cramp, physical problems at the last stages of Grand Slam," said Djokovic.

"I feel for him, I feel sorry and I hope he can recover."

Alcaraz's physical struggles drained the suspense as he gamely fought to carry on after first two sets, with Djokovic dominating the opener before the Spaniard levelled in the second. The 20-year-old pulled up clutching his right calf as Djokovic held serve for 1-1 in the third set, effectively giving his rival the next game rather than struggle through to the changeover. Alcaraz was a shadow of the unshakeable, all-action player who began the match, his movement heavily restricted as Djokovic breezed through the rest of the set.

GRAND FINALE
SWIATEK VS MUCHOVA

- Reigning champion Iga Swiatek will attempt to become the first woman to successfully defend the title in Paris in 16 years on Saturday when she faces surprise finalist Karolina Muchova.
- World No 1 Swiatek is bidding for a third Roland Garros crown in four years and fourth Grand Slam title following her 2022 US Open victory. Justine Henin was the last woman to win back-to-back French Open titles in 2007.
- Swiatek, 22, is yet to drop a set in this tournament but will be wary of her Czech opponent who knocked out second seed Aryna Sabalenka in the semifinals after recovering from 2-5 and match point down in the final set.

U-23 & 17 ASIAN MEET

Wrestling coach, two referees 'axed'

FIROZ MIRZA @ Chennai

AS the ongoing unrest was not enough, the last-minute removal of a coach and two referees could hinder Indian wrestlers' campaign at the U-23 and 17 Asian Championships. The tournament is scheduled in Bishkek, Kyrgyzstan from June 10 to 18.

It is learnt freestyle coach of the U-17 team Rajiv Tomar and two referees Jagbir Singh and Virender Malik, who were scheduled to oversee U-23 bouts, have apparently been struck off the team list.

Jagbir is an international referee who recently corroborated a few female wrestlers' allegations against the sidelined Wrestling Federation of India (WFI) president Brij Bhushan Sharan Singh. However, this apparently did not lead to his removal. Instead, it was his statements against the government during the wrestlers' protest in Haridwar that made the authorities concerned to drop him. The competitions in the U-17 age group are scheduled to begin on Saturday, the U-23 events will commence on June 15.

"Jagbir's speech against the government apparently did not go down well with the Sports Authority of India (SAI). Similarly, it was perceived that Virender is close to the previous WFI regime hence he was removed. The same is the reason for action against coach Tomar," a source in the know of things told this daily. Notably, referee Virender had earlier been held on charges of sexual assault in Glasgow during the 2014 Commonwealth Games.

"Now India will have only one referee in U-23 competitions. This can affect our wrestlers' chances at the event. Usually, the presence of referees helps wrestlers during close bouts. Their technical expertise helps team's cause. Similarly, U-17 freestyle wrestlers can feel the absence of their coach to some extent," added the source.

Teams leave in batches for the international events, which usually start with Greco-Roman competitions followed by bouts in women's wrestling and freestyle. Jagbir and Virender were scheduled to fly with the first batch of the U-23 wrestlers and their support staff on June 13. The selection trials to pick up the teams for the event were conducted by the ad-hoc committee formed by the Indian Olympic Association (IOA) to run the WFI.

Cops take woman wrestler to WFI office

The Delhi police on Friday took a woman wrestler, who has accused Brij Bhushan of sexual harassment, to WFI's office in New Delhi. Cops claimed that they wanted to recreate the sequence of events that led to the alleged crime. It should be noted that Brij Bhushan's bungalow houses the WFI's office.

Voters list sought ahead of elections

The ad-hoc panel started gathering voters list to prepare the electoral roll for the impending WFI elections. The names of presidents and secretaries of member state units have been sought by the panel. Earlier, sports minister Anurag Thakur had assured that the elections will be held by June 30.

MLS hope Messi will boost league popularity

AGENCIES @ New York

AFTER two decades competing against Real Madrid, Manchester United and Brazil, Lionel Messi will be going against the NFL, Major League Baseball and the NBA. Major League Soccer is hoping for a breakout boost to its television audience and market share after Messi joins Inter Miami next month. Following Pel''s signing with the New York Cosmos in 1975 and David Beckham joining the LA Galaxy in 2007, Messi is expected to become the third supreme soccer evangelist in a nation where the sport has been playing catch-up for more than a century.

"Lionel Messi coming to MLS is an event that can't be replicated in any other way," former U.S. Soccer Federation President Sunil Gulati said. "You've got one of the best players of all time, if not the best player of all time, coming on the heels of a World Cup win and worldwide popularity joining an American soccer league."Messi will join MLS at age 36 while Pele was 34 and Beckham 32. Messi remains a regular with Argentina's national team and could play in next year's Copa America and perhaps the 2026 World Cup, both in the U.S. The Cosmos of the old North American Soccer League averaged 3,578 fans in 1974, the season before Pele, and played in Downing Stadium along the Triborough Bridge. By his final year, 1977, they averaged more than 34,000 at Giants Stadium in East Rutherford, New Jersey.

Clive Toye, the Cosmos general manager who signed Pele, remembered being met with hostility. "Oh, Americans will never play that soccer. Oh, what a ridiculous game." he recalled being told. "Messi is coming to a country which has millions of soccer players, where its national team draws packed crowds, its women's national team draws packed crowds."

RESCUING THE CORALS

The corals were once bleached. Now they're big, healthy and ready to be moved back to their original reefs in the hope they'll thrive once more

We try to grow them from very small fragments up to — now some of them have reached — the size of my fist

— al-Jailani, who's part of the Environment Agency Abu Dhabi's coral restoration programme

ALMOST REGULAR PHENOMENA

Bleaching events are happening more frequently around the world as waters warm due to human-made climate change, caused by the burning of oil, coal and gas that emits heat-trapping gases into the atmosphere

IDEAL CONDITIONS TO RECOVER

The nursery gives corals the ideal conditions to recover: clear waters with strong currents and the right amount of sunlight

Al-Jailani periodically checks the corals' growth, removes any potentially harmful seaweed and seagrass, and even lets the fish feed off the corals to clean them, until they're healthy enough to be relocated

SECOND BLEACHING

The Environment Agency Abu Dhabi, or EAD, has been rehabilitating and restoring corals since 2021, when reefs off the United Arab Emirates' coast faced their second bleaching event in just five years

EAD'S INITIATIVE

EAD's project is one of many initiatives — both public and private — across the country to protect the reefs and the marine life that depend on them in a nation that has come under fire for its large-scale developments and polluting industries that cause harm to underwater ecosystems

HOW CORAL BLEACHING OCCURS

Coral bleaching occurs when sea temperatures rise and sun glares flush out algae that give the corals their color, turning them white

Corals can survive bleaching events, but can't effectively support marine life, threatening the populations that depend on them

LOST 70% OF THEIR CORALS

RESILIENCE OF CORALS

Although the bleaching events "did wipe out a good portion of our corals," he said, "it did also prove that the corals that we have are actually resilient ... these corals can actually withstand these kind of conditions."

The UAE lost up to 70% of their corals, especially around Abu Dhabi, in 2017 when water temperatures reached 37 degrees Celsius, according to EAD

But al-Jailani said 40-50% of corals survived the second bleaching event in 2021

EXFILE • MARINE LIFE

To restore reefs dying in warming seas, UAE turns to coral nurseries

On a boat off the coast of an island near Abu Dhabi, marine scientist Hamad al-Jailani feels the corals, picked from the reef nursery and packed in a box of seawater, and studies them carefully, making sure they haven't lost their colour

EFFECT OF SPACE TRAVEL ON ASTRONAUTS

Space travellers who spend six months or more have experienced significant expansion of the cerebral ventricles

STUDY

Ever since man began expeditions to the outer space, researchers have always been intrigued by the effect space exerts on an individual's health.

In their latest study, scientists discovered that the out-of the-world region does cause havoc on an individual's health. The NASA-funded study stated that astronauts who spend around six months living at the International Space Station (ISS) or other shuttles in order to carry out missions have experienced significant expansion of the cerebral ventricles. The cerebral ventricles are spaces in the middle of the brain that contain cerebrospinal fluid.

This fluid flows around the brain and spinal cord and protects the brain by providing it a cushion incase it experiences a sudden force or a jolt.

According to Reuters, based on brain scans of 30 astronauts, the researchers found that it took three years for the ventricles to fully recover after such journeys, suggesting that an interval of at least that duration would be advisable between longer space missions.

University of Florida neuroscientist Heather McGregor, lead author of the study published in the journal Scientific Reports said, "If the ventricles don't have sufficient time to recover between back-to-back missions, this may impact the brain's ability to cope with fluid shifts in microgravity.

For example, if the ventricles are already enlarged from a previous mission, they may be less compliant and/or have less space to expand and accommodate fluid shifts during the next mission."

At the moment, we are aware that age-related ventricular enlargement—which is not caused by trips to the outer space—leads to cognitive decline. However, in-depth study is required to fully understand the impact of ventricular expansion in astronauts.

The brains of space travellers is affected by the lack of Earth's gravity.

Study senior author Rachael Seidler said, "On Earth, our vascular systems have valves that prevent all of our fluids from pooling at our feet due to gravity. In microgravity, the opposite occurs - fluids shift toward the head. This headward fluid shift likely results in ventricular expansion, and the brain sits higher within the skull."

Iran arrests cartoonist Atena Farghadani

REPORT

DUBAI: Iranian authorities have summoned and arrested a cartoonist who has a history of being imprisoned for political posts on her Instagram account, her lawyer said Friday.

Mohammad Moghimi said in a tweet his client, Atena Farghadani, a painter, cartoonist and former political prisoner, was summoned to the Evin courthouse in Tehran and arrested. In 2016, Farghadani was released after spending 18 months in jail for portraying lawmakers as animals to criticise a draft law restricting contraception and criminalising voluntary sterilization.

On Wednesday, Farghadani posted one of her cartoons showing people with animal and satanic faces. The Committee to Protect Journalists said Iranian authorities must release Farghadani. "This cycling of journalists... through prison is a continuation of authorities' long-standing revolving door policy and a hallmark of Iran's failure to respect rule of law," said, CPJ's Middle East and North Africa program coordinator.

Mt Tarawera erupts

Mount Tarawera erupted on this day in 1886 and obliterated the Pink and White Terraces and buried a number of villages

LASTED SIX HOURS

The eruption lasted six hours and caused massive destruction. It was the first major eruption in New Zealand to be witnessed by Europeans

RESCUE OPERATIONS

Men from the region formed rescue parties and began digging out survivors and casualties. Te Wairoa, now 'The Buried Village', became a tourist attraction

PINK & WHITE TERRACES

Before 1886, the Pink and White Terraces of Lake Rotomahana were a tourist spot in Rotorua. The White Terrace was over 100 ft high

On the fourth death anniversary of Jnanpith awardee Girish Karnad, director KM Chaitanya, veteran actors Arundathi Nag, Padmavati Rao, and author and playwright Vivek Shanbag fondly reminisce about the thespian

A DEAFENING CURTAIN FALL

DESE GOWDA

ACTOR and thespian Arundathi Nag's earliest memory of Girish Karnad is from the sets of Ondanondu Kaladalli – written by Karnad and starring her future husband Shankar Nag in the lead. "A young, denim-clad director with a cigarette in his mouth and completely in control of the situation. Cinema is such a fragmented art that your team needs to be completely with you. He had a good team, of course, but there was something about his style that – despite working in some of the most difficult conditions – helped create magic on screen," says Nag.

On the fourth anniversary of Karnad's passing, Nag says she misses the fun-loving senior whom she always looked up to. "It's a loss for theatre, but it's a greater loss for India. Here was a man who openly aligned himself with anti-establishment movements, while few dared to stand up. Hence, in Girish, we lost a role model," Nag shares.

Karnad left an indelible mark on the cultural landscape. From introducing talented actors like Shankar Nag and Vishnuvardhan, writing and directing thoughtful plays like Tughlaq and Nagamandala to delivering memorable performances on stage and screen, the Jnanpith awardee showcased his artistic brilliance in many ways.

Among the actors that benefitted from his guidance is Padmavati Rao, sister of Nag. "I was 15 when I first met him. I had bunked my classes to go find him at Bombay labs, to ask if I could work on Ondanondu Kaladalli. When I met him, I was in awe. He was a bundle of affection and warmth, always available to guide you," Rao says. Since then, Rao worked with Karnad for over 40 years. The last time she met him was a week before his passing. She remembers the meeting acutely, "He had given me Crossing to Talikota to translate. I gave the final draft to him a week before his passing. When he started to read, I was leaving, and he asked me to sit with him. We talked for a while. I feel we both knew that it would be the last time we would meet," she says.

Director KM Chaitanya, a long-time collaborator of Karnad, says, "He was a mathematical genius in writing. When we were shooting for Kanooru Heggadithi, I was his associate director. He would keep improvising, and I would ask him not to because it would disrupt filming schedules. But he assured me that it wouldn't and asked me to rewrite dialogues in the scene he had improvised in a particular order. When I did that, the scene had completely changed, but the duration had remained the same."

The many faces of Girish Karnad

"There was a step change when Karnad burst into the Kannada theatre scene. The sensibilities and structure he brought into playwriting was unlike any other. His play Tughlaq, for instance, still remains relevant today, despite numerous productions. That goes to show the power of the play. He was able to create a metaphor about power and loneliness of a human being, which to the world, at that point looked like the story of a madman."

— Vivek Shanbag, author and playwright

JEST FOR Laughs

In B'luru for her world tour, Berlin-based comic Elena Gabrielle on standup going global, having musical elements in her act and her familiarity with Indian comedians

TUNIR BISWAS

ELENA Gabrielle started writing solo cabaret shows when she was only 19 years old. Growing up as a theatre kid, she developed a taste for musical theatre in her youth. "I love singing and acting, but after completing my studies at university, I found that I actually prefer to write my material. This led me to write solo cabaret shows. I had always wanted to try standup but was too scared, with cabaret you can hide behind characters or costumes, but with standup, it's 100 per cent you. But now I love it," says the 34-year-old comedian mentioning that she also incorporates music in her act and is a fan of the US-based musical comedian Bo Burnham.

Coming to Bengaluru on June 22 at Just BLR Comedy Club on Brigade Road with her show Addickted, Gabrielle confesses she decided to tour India because of some persistent fans. "I have been getting so many messages to come to India for years, so I finally decided to and it's been successful so far. I've even started to learn Hindi! This will be my first time in Bengaluru, I'm excited about it. The Indian comedy scene is amazing, the talent is out of this world, and the people and audiences are so nice. I'm always surprised to meet so many amazing comedians (who I don't know are famous) and then I look them up online and go 'OMG these people are famous!'," says Gabriella, who has visited India before.

Due to having toured numerous countries in her career, she has witnessed the subjective nature of comedy. "I've toured over 65 countries, and one of the fascinating things about my job I find is what different countries laugh at. Sometimes I perform in places where their English isn't as strong, so there is a moment of translation or perhaps the subtle language might go over their heads, but for the most part, I think streaming services and YouTube have really opened the world up to standup," shares the Australia-born Berlin-based comedian, who holds a Guinness World Record for producing and performing in Burleskathon, 24 hours of continuous Burlesque.

In her act, Gabrielle doesn't shy away from speaking her mind. "I do say what's on my mind particularly when it comes to comedy. I talk a lot about dating as a single woman, and it's so interesting, the things I think are normal to talk about out loud are quite taboo in some places. It's something that I love because sometimes these things need to be talked about more openly," she concludes, adding that a recent comedy special she really enjoyed was Landing by Vir Das, which she felt was 'poetic comedy genius'.

REVA University Takes a Stand for Inclusivity at 'Li and Le' Film Fest

Dr P Shyama Raju, Chancellor of REVA University felicitates Kushboo Sundar, actress and National Executive Council Member of the BJP at the Li & Le International Students' Film Festival and Samaavesha programme held at REVA University. Also seen are Dr M Dhanamjaya, Vice Chancellor and Dr N Ramesh, Registrar, REVA

The annual International Students' Film Festival 'Li and Le' and the sequel to SAMAAVESHA, organised by the School of Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences, were recently inaugurated at REVA University. The event, held in alignment with the United Nations' Sustainable Development Goal #5, focuses on inclusivity and diversity, with a specific emphasis on gender equality.

The programme, which aimed to empower women and girls, was graced by the presence of Guest of Honour, Kushboo Sundar, a renowned actress and National Executive Council Member of the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP).

Speaking at the event, she highlighted the significant role of women in Indian politics, cinema, and society. She emphasised the importance of equality and stated that the concept of gender equality conflict has become outdated.

She also spoke at length about the role and representation of women in politics, stating, "There are numerous reasons for women to not get actively involved in politics. Most of the time, they have to fight for their own rights."

The event was also graced by the Guest of Honour, Maya Sharma, Former Consultant Editor at NDTV and a freelance journalist. She spoke about how national channels have embraced true equality. Additionally, she discussed the representation of women in media, their challenges, and ways to overcome them.

Dr. P. Shyama Raju, Chancellor of REVA University, presided over the event and highlighted how

Dr P Shyama Raju, Chancellor of REVA University felicitates Maya Sharma, Former Consultant Editor, NDTV and freelance journalist at the Li & Le International Students' Film Festival and Samaavesha programme.

REVA University always works towards providing equal opportunities for individuals of all genders. Dr. M Dhanamajaya, Vice Chancellor of REVA University, Dr. N Ramesh, Registrar of REVA University, and other dignitaries were also present.

The inauguration was followed by the screening of the inaugural film 'Gandhada Gudi', a docudrama starring late Dr. Puneeth Rajkumar and directed by Amoghavarsha JS. The film celebrates the rich tapestry of culture and nature. A Masterclass with the director, who is also a wildlife photographer, followed the screening.

The three-day film festival provided a prominent platform for film directors, students, film enthusiasts, and media personnel to engage in meaningful discussions and deliberations on the challenges and opportunities surrounding gender equality in today's society.

FIT BIT

ARDHA VIRASANA URDHVA HASTA
(HALF HERO POSE ARMS OVERHEAD)

This is a beginner level variation of Hero Pose which involves stretching of the arms and puts a positive impact on the core, hips, quadriceps, psoas and pelvis. This sitting yoga pose is doable for senior citizens and those who are not able to stand

STEPS

- Start in Dandasana (Staff Pose).
- Maintaining the left leg as it is, exhale and bend the right leg towards the back such that the right foot is placed just beside the end of the right hip, ensuring the surface of the right foot is facing up.
- Feel the pressure and rotation at the hips.
- Once comfortable, inhale and raise both arms over the head so that they are parallel to each other, slightly touching the ears. Keep the palms facing each other.
- Hold this pose for at least ten breaths, and stretch your arms as much as possible.
- Try alternating the legs, using the above steps.
- As you hold the position for some time, be aware of the body-breath connections.

LOST AND FOUND

I think the full weight of surviving Cardi-V is hitting us now. I know that many people may scoff at the idea and claim that 'no one even remembers,' but I think we are in denial. As the human race, we have shown our mettle over numerous crises, biological, natural and manmade disasters. But nothing has warped our minds as much as the aftermath of Cardi-V.

The end of the last millennium has spawned a certain sense of entitlement and an apathetic demeanour in us. Unknowingly, we have allowed the 'poor cousin' of artificial intelligence rule our lives to the extent where we need 'Google', 'Alexa', or 'Siri' to give us our answers. We have slowly morphed into an indolent species used to getting our way. So when the impact of this hit us in the most damaging way...taking away the choice of being social beings by isolating us, we were at a loss to comprehend as to how to respond/react to these altered circumstances.

Most of us thought it will blow away and our infinite faith in science gave us a Machiavellian attitude. And then...the bodies started piling up and our privilege was nothing in front of its onslaught. We were all vulnerable, and the isolation slowly became almost fanatical in its implementation. We had truly stepped into the twilight zone.

We handled the lockdown pretty well initially with most of us become amateur 'master chefs', taking to yoga and meditation with a vengeance or becoming the local doomsday pundits relaying every bit of information (true or false) we got. Now, we have self-proclaimed that the nasty virus has gone, and we have turned to partying hard, travelling hard, and doing everything over the top. Like lost souls we furiously dig up the sand in the desert looking for water. I know that I am parched and lost. I like my own company more and I often find people behaving oddly. I find it tiresome to maintain relationships that give me nothing in return.

I found that certain je-ne-sais-quoi that makes my heart beat faster in the darkened cool interiors of Chowdiah Hall when I witnessed Shabana Azmi and Kawaljit Singh read aloud the dramatised version of Shaukat and Kaifi Azmi's love story. The superb singer and the music ensemble would sing some of Kaifiji's poems converted into lilting songs. I found myself floating, with tears flowing down my cheeks, listening, imbibing and soaking up the perfectness of it all. I am an artiste, and I am lost without the ability to perform, sing and dance...

I loved the evening. A couple of my artiste friends like Madhu Natraj were with me. How I have missed this. In Mumbai, I refused a big-ticket offer to act in a movie. I am not a big fan of acting in movies...the apathy, the long hours. The fat paycheque allowed me the freedom to indulge in other passions like theatre, but now, I don't want to do this anymore!

One cannot say 'no' to friends, so I tootled off to the ITC Gardenia to dine on typical auld Delhi fare aptly titled The Delnavi Trail serving succulent kebabs, biryanis and chaats that keeps Delhi on the food map. What was most appealing was the seamless banter and laughter shared with friends

Perhaps I am found...

Alka Dev, Madhu Natraj and Kausalya Ramani

Raju James Bond aiming for an August release

CE FEATURES

THE shooting of Deepak Madhuvanahalli's directorial debut, Raju James Bond, starring Gurunandan, has been wrapped up after a long period of production. The makers have initiated the promotional campaign with the release of the lyrical video for the song Bekitta Bekitta, Ee Lavu Bekitta, a lively track known for being a popular drinking song.

While Deepak Madhuvanahalli has penned the lyrics, Anthony Das has lent the vocals for the song composed by Anoop Seelin. Deepak has created a unique story, and producers Manju Vishwakarma and Kiran Barthur have ensured that the film is made without any compromises. Gurunandan, the lead actor, mentioned that his character in this film will be distinct from his previous works. He also revealed that the team is targeting an August release for the film.

Team Raju James Bond

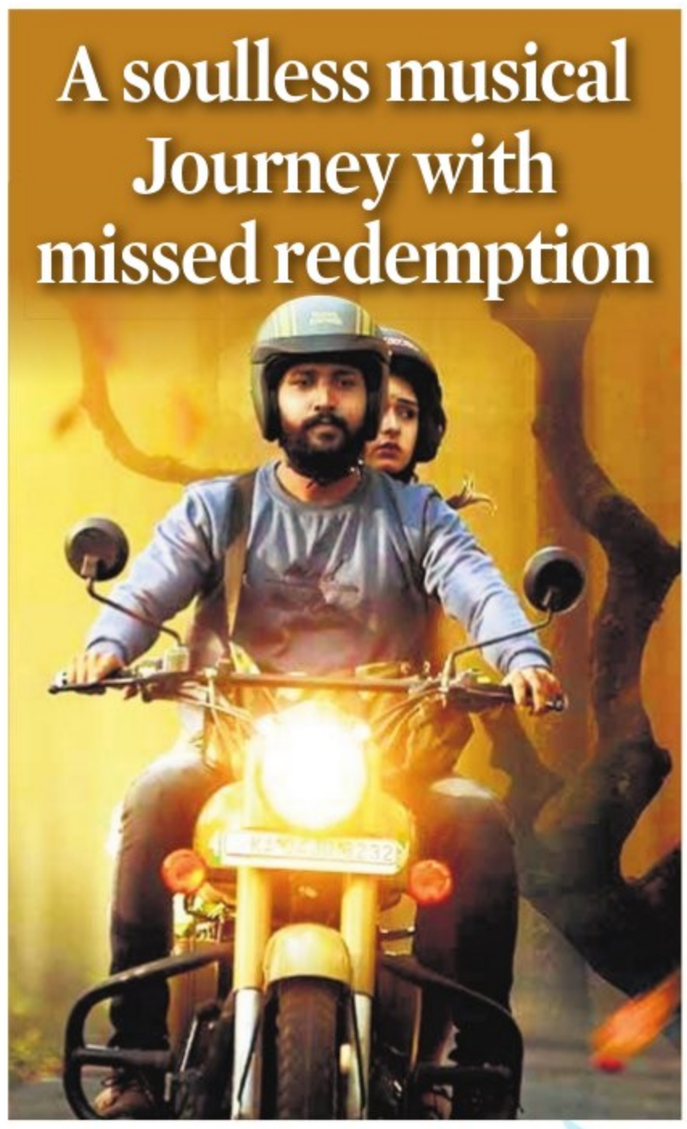
One of the film's highlights is the shooting of crucial portions in London, which took place over a span of 21 days.

Raju James Bond stars Mridula as the female lead and features a talented ensemble cast including Ravi Shankar, Sadhukokila, Achyuth Kumar, Chikkanna, Jai Jagadish, Tabala Nani, Manjunath Hegde, and Vijay Chendur.

A soulless musical Journey with missed redemption



A SHARADHAA

MISTAKES are unavoidable in life, but redemption is always within reach. This is the underlying theme of Melody Drama. However, upon watching the film, one can't help but notice the director's own mistakes and the path to his redemption may take some time.

Melody Drama begins with the stunning visuals of Jog Falls, and the picturesque beauty momentarily reminded me of Mungaru Male. However, when it comes to this film, it falls far short of achieving classic status. Melody Drama relies heavily on music and voiceovers at various intervals, with less emphasis on dialogue interaction.

The story revolves around Karthik (Satya Shraya), who believes that love and relationships are based on faith. Seeking solace in his life, he embarks on a road trip. On the other hand, Hitha (Supriya Sathyanarayan), a bride-to-be, finds herself in a state of confusion and runs away from the wedding hall. She seeks help from Karthik, who is covering his face with a mask. Although Karthik drops her off, fate brings them together again. Their journey starts from Mysuru and takes them to Madikere, Koppa, Hubbali, and finally Bijapur, and at one point their identities and relationship status are revealed. Throughout this journey, the director takes us to the past through flashbacks, and it becomes clear that Karthik is deeply in love with Hitha. Although Hitha reciprocates her love, she is practical and explains that she cannot marry him as she does not want to go against her mother's wishes and decides to marry her father's best friend's son, Sanju. However, circumstances change at the wedding hall, and she ultimately ends up marrying Karthik.

Hitha is content with Karthik as a husband but not satisfied with his profession as a Recovery agent. She wants him to quit his job, and he ends up owning a pre-car service business. However, when Hitha discovers that Karthik was the reason why the boy (Sanju) chosen by her mother didn't show up at the wedding hall, differences arise, and the couple separate.

Will this road trip help them reconcile, or will Hitha return to following her mother's wishes? The answers lead to a cold and unsatisfying climax.

Director Manju Karthik aimed to justify the title Melody Drama by making it musical, but he got carried away in the process. He attempted to convey the entire film through songs. Despite having seven soulful tracks composed by Kiran Ravindranath and having renowned singers Sonu Nigam, Kailash Kher, and Palak Muchhal lending their voices to various tracks, and with lyrics penned by Jayant Kaikini, V Nagendra Prasad, and Dhananjay Ranjan, the songs do not make a soulful impact. While the songs individually are good, the repetitive background score and the excessive number of songs hinder the narrative.

Furthermore, the director's vision of portraying love and relationships in the story is commendable, but the execution is a complete mess. The first half of the film mainly revolves around Karthik stalking Hitha and their travel, which serves no purpose. The crux of the entire film lies in the second half, where the secret of the two individuals, who initially appear as strangers, being husband and wife is revealed too soon. The director attempts to introduce twists and turns but fails to develop them further.

Certain characters are introduced to intervene in the story, like Rajesh Nataranga, who portrays an army officer and adds a touch of father-daughter sentiment, and a child artist who portrays the younger version of Hitha. The significance of these characters is justified towards the end when Karthik fulfills Hitha's dream of seeing Gol Gumbaz, which she expressed to her father as a child. Another character, Anu Prabhakar, portrays an area don, but her presence lacks logical explanation, except for adding fuel to the growing differences between the couple. Rangayana Raghu appears in a guest role as a nomad, which once again serves no purpose. The same can be said of Chetan Chandra's inexplicable cameo too.

The biggest drawback of the film lies in its lead actors. Satya, who plays the protagonist in this emotional love story, fails to bring any depth to his character. Whether in happy or sad moments, his portrayal remains stiff, making it difficult for the audience to connect with him. Supriya, coming from a TV serial background, struggles to grasp the nuances of the silver screen. Despite having the opportunity to showcase her talent and significant screen presence, she fails to effectively carry their love story. At times, the plot becomes confusing, leaving the viewers unsure of what is happening. Bala Rajawadi and Lakshmi Siddaiah provide support to the film in their respective roles, but their efforts do not contribute significantly.

The only redeeming aspect of Melody Drama is the cinematography by Manu D B Halli, who beautifully captures aerial views and the breathtaking landscapes of Karnataka. However, apart from that, the film feels soulless in terms of its music, story, and character development. It is advisable to skip this musical journey and instead revisit the enchanting experience of watching Mungaru Male once again.

A POLITICAL SATIRE THAT SHEDS LIGHT ON THE COMPLEXITIES OF RURAL POLITICS

A SHARADHAA

VETERAN composer, V Manohar makes a comeback as a director after a hiatus of more than two decades with his film, Darbar. With an impressive track record of composing music for 230 films, Manohar's directorial debut, O Mallige (1997), was a delightful romantic tale that enjoyed immense success at the box office. His second venture, Indradhanush (2000), leaned towards commercial entertainment. Now, after a span of 23 years, he steps behind the camera once again to deliver a political satire. Can this veteran composer and director captivate the audience's attention as he did with his first film? Let's find out.

Darbar revolves around Madhuchandra, or Madhu (played by Satish), who holds an influential position in the village. Born into a privileged family, Madhu commands respect and strives to instill discipline among the unruly youth in his community, and among the villagers. He strongly opposes gambling and excessive drinking, especially among the youth.

During a village fair, Madhu's path crosses with Deepa (Jahnavi), and their love story blossoms. However, some jealous and envious villagers hatch a devious plan to humiliate Madhu. They manipulate him into contesting for the village Gram Panchayat, intending to defeat him with the insignificant and wayward Naga (Huli Karthik), known for his involvement in illegal activities. With the help of village miscreants, Naga manages to secure a seat in the village panchayat. The fate of Naga and Madhu becomes the central focus of Darbar.

The director's intention is to deliver a powerful message to society, highlighting the striking parallels between elections for the village panchayat and state assembly. The film successfully depicts how candidates resort to bribery, crafty schemes, false sympathy, and even pledging on deities to secure votes. A thought-provoking song about elections, sung by filmmaker and singer Upendra, sheds light on the prevalent corruption among elected representatives in rural areas. It serves as an eye-opener for the audience. While the film manages to capture the unfiltered essence of village life, it falls short in terms of its execution, with V Manohar harkening back to the style of older films.

Satish with his well-built physique, has made a valiant effort to deliver his best as the protagonist in Darbar. Apart from playing the lead role, he has written and produced the film. This multi-faceted involvement seems to have enabled him to have a greater influence on the creative decisions and even call the shots on set. However, when it comes to conveying heartfelt emotions and sentiments, he falls slightly short, leaving room for improvement. Nonetheless, he comes across as confident with his dialogue delivery. On the other hand, Jahnavi adds a delightful touch of romance to the film. Her on-screen presence is enchanting and provides support to her love interest during the election turmoil. Huli Karthik, usually known for his comedic performances, has showcased his versatility in a negative character.

However, the inclusion of Sadhu Kokila and Naveen Padil in the film feels unnecessary and fails to make a significant contribution to the overall narrative. Their characters seem somewhat disconnected from the central plot, leaving viewers questioning their purpose in the story. Moreover, veteran actor Ashok, unfortunately, has limited screen time, appearing in only a handful of scenes. The film features veteran actor Lakshmi Devi, whose mere presence makes the audience happy.

Despite its attempt to captivate audiences with its social message, Darbar fails in terms of certain entertaining aspects. The film's execution lacks the finesse and modern touch that today's audience may expect. The old method of conveying the story, might not resonate well with contemporary viewers. However, it must be acknowledged that the film successfully provides valuable insights into the dark underbelly of local politics, shedding light on the corrupt practices that often plague the electoral process. It serves as a reminder of the dire need for integrity and honesty in political campaigns and elections.

Although primarily targeting rural audiences, the message conveyed in Darbar holds true even for metropolitan cities during elections. It reminds viewers of the importance of making informed choices, not being influenced solely by freebies and demanding transparency from their elected representatives. It is unfortunate, however, that the film didn't arrive earlier, as it could have served a purpose during the actual Karnataka elections, creating greater awareness and encouraging responsible participation among the electorates.

IT HELPS TO REMEMBER THAT FORGETTABLE FUN IS STILL FUN

PRASHANTH VALLAVAN

TRANSFORMERS: Rise of the Beasts kicks off with the energy of a typical 90s sci-fi action film, an era that the film itself is set in. The energy and the tone feel right, it has all the effervescent charm of a generic commercial entertainer. Initially, all these positive thoughts about the film flood your brain but floating above these thoughts like a rubber ball stubbornly refusing to submerge, are your other thoughts, like the ones that go: "It makes sense for a transformer to camouflage itself as a car but why would a robot made of metal transform itself into an animal?" or "Why does it feel like I've seen this same movie before?" or "Did the 'Beasts' really rise?"

There are many such balls of pointlessly rational thoughts that rise to the surface of your attention and then submerge out of view at various points during the film. Needless to say, you have a good time when these thoughts stay submerged. The charm and energy present in the beginning, are largely due to characters that seem fairly likeable. Anthony Ramos' Noah Diaz and Dominique Fishback's Elena are characters we are familiar with in such large-scale tentpole films. The fatigue of watching such familiar characters is supplanted by the sincerity with which the actors try to portray their roles. However, the performances are quickly derailed by low-resolution dialogues. The dialogues are primed to be functional, expository, and have the brazen stench of focus-group meddling. Save for some neatly written lines, most of the character interactions are laced with a formula that goes something like, "Here's the problem. Here's what happens if the problem isn't solved. Here's what we have to do, and Here's how we do it." The template is unmissable as it is often immediately followed by the characters reiterating a simplified, watered-down version of the same dialogue, presumably to give a run-down for the audience so they can quickly jump to the next action sequence. But the film isn't totally devoid of enjoyable moments. Rise of the Beasts does give us some slick Transformers action.

Even though the film has a promising start, it falters as soon as figure out what the story has to do to get to the climactic battle, and it ends up happening with the mundane formality of an assembly line. As it seems, a competent direction still cannot make up for a weak story. No matter how hard they try to personalise the (yet another) world-ending stake by connecting it to Diaz's struggle to save his family, the stakes don't translate into thrills and excitement. Peter Cullen once again asserts his position as one of the greatest voice actors of our generation. A sonorous personification of power and gallantry, when the inexorably magnificent voice of Cullen breathes life into Optimus Prime, it is hard not to ruminate on the legacy of his vocal performance and how it became that one reliable thing about the Transformers films, singlehandedly propping up their legacy for close to two decades.

When all is said and done, anyone who sits down to watch Transformers: Rise of the Beasts, with clear expectations compiled from memories of joy watching previous Transformers films, will not be disappointed. The film knows what it is and what is needed of it. By unapologetically embracing its fan favourite traits, Rise of the Beasts provides ample amounts of hero-elevation, Transformers action, car chases, epic Optimus Prime speech, ignorable yet highly functional human leads, and a perfect soundtrack to go with it.
